Collapses in Dock

WILLIAMSON: GUILTY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Al Williamson Friday was found guilty on two counts of forgery in the sending of the "Dear Hal" letter to an aide of Prime Minister Pearson.

Only minutes after Mr. Justice Craig Munroe announced that Williamson was remanded until 10 a.m. Thursday for sentence the 60-year-old Vancouver public relations man collapsed in the dock.

Williamson dropped a cup of water he was holding and slumped in his seat. His wife rushed to his side and cradled his head on her shoulder, begging a court official to call a doctor.

Twelve minutes after the verdict was announced an ambulance arrived at the court house.

Williamson, 60, was remanded on his own recognizance.

The 12-man jury returned its verdict after three hours and 17 minutes.

When it gave its verdict of guilty of forging a letter to Hal Dornan, Mr. Pearson's assistant, and attempting to have Dornan treat it as genuine, Williamson sharply drew in his breath and his jaw dropped open.

His distraught wife held on to his sleeve as he was carried out on a stretcher and taken to hospital. As he was given oxygen and put onto the stretcher relatives wept nearby.

Williamson was later reported in good condition in hospital.

He could be sentenced up to 14 years on each count. The jury recommended leniency on the second count, however.

Mr. Justice Munroe sent a stir through the courtroom in the closing moments of a detailed charge to the Supreme Court jury.

He said the Crown was bound to prove that Williamson did not have authority to write the letter to Dornan in the name of Premier Bennett.

Yet, he said, there had been an "unexplained failure" by the Crown to bring forth the premier to testify. He would have been the person "best able to negate such authority."

Gemini Twins Set Record

Big-Arm Satellite Fellow Traveller

HOUSTON (AP) — The American space twins set a new American endurance record Friday.

At 6:36 p.m. PDT Edward White and command pilot James McDivitt surpassed astronaut Gordon Cooper's record of 34 hours and 20 minutes, set May 16, 1963. (See also Page 2.)

In other moments of excitement during a comparatively routine day, the astronauts also chatted breezily with their wives and caught a glimpse of another satellite in orbit.

FOUR HOUR GOAL

Hours before the record-breaking moment came, McDivitt and White had been given the green light to go for 33 orbits. Their ultimate goal is to complete 62 orbits and drop back to earth Monday after 97 hours and 50 minutes in space.

Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky set the record two years ago: 119 hours, 61 orbits.

The most glamorous phase of their four-day adventure behind them, McDivitt and White spent the second day of their cosmic journey simply trying to live routinely in their strange environment.

It took movies, but the glaring sun prevented him from identifying it positively.

U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said the object might be the Pegasus II satellite, a bat-like device for detecting meteoroids.

U.S. Orders Lemay Back to Montreal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. immigration service Friday ordered Georges Lemay deported to Canada, where he is sought in connection with a 1961 bank robbery.

Immigration officer Melton Milich granted Lemay's lawyer 10 days to appeal the order. Milich withheld a decision in a deportation hearing involving Lemay's wife.

ACCUSED KINGPIN
Lemay, 39, is accused of engineering a 1961 burglary in which safety deposit boxes in a Montreal branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia were robbed of between $500,000 and $4,000,000. Lemay and Lise Lemieux, 28, were married by a notary public Wednesday in a swift ceremony prior to an immigration hearing.

Lemay was arrested May 6 aboard his yacht at Fort Lauderdale. A boat repairman tipped off police after he saw a resemblance between the yacht owner and Lemay's picture broadcast on the first Early Bird satellite television program.

97 STUCK ON ISLE IN PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A large Pacific passenger liner tried to rescue 97 stranded tourists from an island near Australia today but was prevented by high seas, the ship's agent here said.

A spokesman for P & O Orient Lines said it received a message from the 29,000-ton Orsova saying it was proceeding to Auckland, New Zealand, after failing to make the rescue at Lord Howe Island, 436 miles northwest of Sydney. The ship said the tourists were stranded on the island Tuesday when their New South Wales Airlines flying boat broke from its mooring and was damaged. There was no indication they were in any immediate danger.

Rivard's Partner Nabbed in Lair

MONTREAL (CP)—Four Montreal morality squad police officers carried out a lightning raid Friday which netted them Andre Durocher, who scaled the wall of Montreal's Baudouin jail March 2 with narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard.

Acting on a tip, the morality squad officers broke down the door of an apartment on Christopher Colomb Street in north-end Montreal taking Durocher, who was ready for such an occasion, completely by surprise.

"He was well armed," a member of the squad said.

"We found three revolvers in the apartment, one hidden in the sofa, one in the kitchen and another under the bed."

"We also found some dynamite and three Molotov cocktails."

Durocher, 28, didn't have a chance to resist arrest.

"We had a good idea he was in there and we weren't taking any chances on him making the first move," the officer said.

The officer also took into custody a woman who claimed to be Durocher's wife.

There was no immediate word as to whether the capture had led to any information on the whereabouts of Rivard, central figure in the Dornan federal inquiry who was awaiting proceedings to extradite him to the United States, where he faces narcotics smuggling charges.

BIG SPRINGS, Neb. (AP)—A tall, well-dressed bank robber shot four employees of a western Nebraska country bank in the back Friday, then walked to a late model car, circled the block and headed out of town.

Three of the bank staff, including the elderly bank president, were killed, the fourth critically wounded.

NO CUSTOMERS

There were no customers in the bank at the time, but on his way to his car, the six-foot bank robber bumped into a farmer, who looked inside the bank and then cried for help.

The holdup and gunplay in this prairie town of 850 was in the lethal tradition of the gun slingers who roamed this Nebraska panhandle country in the days of the old west and of "public enemies" such as John Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson, who terrorized Midwest banks in the 1930s.

LOOTED DRAWERS

The bandit looted the cash drawers but apparently did not attempt to enter the vault. Since the only survivor was the critically wounded assistant cashier, there was no immediate indication of how much was taken.

A physician who examined the victim said all had been shot in the back. He speculated that one had triggered the burglar alarm and the bandit then shot them all.

Dead are:

Andrews Kjelgaard, president of the Farmers State Bank, a man in his 70s; Glen Hendrickson, about 60, the cashier; Mrs. Lois Ann Hothan, about 35, one of two bookkeepers employed in the bank.

Franklin Kjelgaard, 25, an assistant cashier and nephew of the president, was wounded in the back, neck and shoulder.

Justice States Faith In Dornan Integrity

Mr. Justice Munroe said:

"There is one comment I want to make. There have been frequent references during this trial to Mr. Hal Dornan, personal assistant to the prime minister of Canada, and his connection with Mr. Williamson in Harry Stonehill's application for landed status."

"Mr. Dornan testified as a witness during this trial and told the court of the matter under consideration. I cannot speak for the jury but I can say that in my view no evidence was introduced that in any way reflected discredit on Mr. Dornan and there was no evidence to indicate that he did anything wrong or in any way acted in an improper manner."

"In the press, the prime minister has expressed confidence in the integrity of Mr. Dornan and I can only say that such confidence is fully justified."

"I make this comment only because when prominent people are mentioned it is possible that some members of the public can be confused as to who is on trial. Mr. Dornan is not on trial and moreover could not receive a jury's verdict. It is for that reason and because he is an employee in a public position that he is entitled to a comment from me."

"I intended to make this comment regardless of the verdict of the jury."

Reporter Meets Gouzenko

After 20 Years Still a Hunted Man

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The national capital is experiencing again those delicious spasm shivers that come from having front row seats with a close-up, in-person view of some of the actors in the continuing drama of Soviet espionage.

Two Soviet spies have been expelled from Ottawa and shipped back to Moscow, the sixth case in 20 years.

And now the convicted and life-imprisoned American traitor, the discharged airman, Robert Glen Thompson, has testified in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, and writes in a first-person magazine account that his Soviet spy-master once assigned him to come to Canada and track down Igor Gouzenko for Russian "re-prisals."

Well, how well hidden is Gouzenko?

How easy or hard to find? Traitor Thompson failed in his manhunt.

But his had not been an impossible assignment — for it could have happened that he might have come face to face with Gouzenko on the street, in some shop, or even a bar.

This newspaper's Ottawa correspondent talked with Gouzenko some months ago, and it was something of a surprise to discover that while he swears he still goes in fear of his life, he has become singularly casual about appearing in public.

What's the danger, he asks, for who, after 20 years, knows him by sight?

Apart from an accidental on-the-street confrontation, it wouldn't be easy to find him. It is possible—but only after your credentials have been minutely examined and painstakingly confirmed—to arrange, through a series of intermediaries, a meeting with Gouzenko.

All done by phone, too, for you don't see anyone, save your first remote contact, until Gouzenko walks in on you.

Is Gouzenko Safe?

There comes a list of instructions — times, and places and things you must do — intricate and mysterious enough that you suspect they have been lifted from the pages of some espionage novel.

Then comes the shocker: after all the weeks of intrigue and furious hours before the meeting, you find Gouzenko can be the man beside you at the bar, or over there in the hotel lobby.

In this particular instance it happened this way. Gouzenko leaves the rendezvous first, and after 10 minutes an intermediary phone to say you too may now depart.

So you return to your hotel and the phone rings.

It's Gouzenko to say that you left an important document with him by mistake. And as he knows that you need it, he promises to have a trusted friend arrange to have it delivered immediately through a relay of cab drivers.

Twenty minutes later into your hotel room walks Gouzenko with the document and a man he says is a friend and body-guard.

It's then, when you ask in amazement whether it isn't extremely dangerous for him to be here at this time, that he counters with his rather surprising: "Who, after 20 years knows me by sight?"

You are packing, shortly to check out, so Gouzenko has a seeing a satellite, but they couldn't identify it either.

"You still looking at that thing?" McDivitt was asked from mission control after the sighting.

"No, I've lost it. But it had big arms sticking out of it, it looked like," McDivitt said. "I only had it for just a minute. I got a couple of pictures with a movie camera and one with a Hasselblad (a still camera)."

"I was in free drift, and before I could get the control back, it sorta lost it."

"Good show," said capsule communicator Virgil Grissom. They chatted with their wives

From the failure the jury "may—I don't say must—draw the inference that the Crown fears to do so and that the premier may have exposed facts unfavorable to the Crown's case and favorable to the accused."

The letter, which sought support of an application for landed immigrant status for American millionaire Harry Stonehill, has become known as the "Dear Hal" letter.

Mr. Justice Munroe instructed the jury to disregard testimony by Einar Gundersen that Williamson urged him to ask the premier to publicly announce that he—not Williamson—had written the letter.

Mr. Justice Munroe summed up argument of the defence in part by saying: "His (Williamson's) function as public relations man is to participate in the wishes of the boss and carry them out. If the letter from the premier would attain that object the accused would naturally infer that he had authority to write the letter."

"The accused is a public relations man and image worker in that half-deceitful complex world inhabited sometimes by politicians and businessmen with products to sell by any means. His job was to get results."

He said the real issues in the case were: Was the jury satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the accused had no authority expressed or implied to compose the letter and send it to Dornan. If so it must convict. Even if Williamson had no such authority the jury must ask itself whether it had any reasonable doubt "as to whether or not he honestly believed he had the premier's authority to do so."

"If so he must be acquitted." In its summation the Crown's evidence was not necessary for a conviction of Williamson, who claimed he had authority to write letters for the premier. The defence said the Crown should have called the premier to the stand as the only person who could give conclusive evidence to dispute Williamson's right to have written the so-called "Dear Hal" letter over the premier's signature.

The letter bore the signature "W. A. C. Bennett." The Crown counsel said Williamson had admitted never having written a personal letter for the premier before the "Dear Hal" letter.

The defence had gone to the RCMP "in a panic" fearing disclosure of the letter after a sensational story broke about a suggestion that Stonehill buy his way into Canada with a $25,000 or $30,000 "investment" in the Liberal party.

Bowen - Colthurst suggested a man who believed he had authority to write letters for the premier would not have gone to the police to make a full statement.

Further, the statement made no reference to his authority to write the letter—the substance of his defence in the forgery trial.

Williamson's claim the Bennett signature was genuine made a "completely incredible and preposterous story," the Crown counsel said.

The jury had to believe that the premier signed a letter-head in blank — in the exact position to fit the text of the "Dear Hal" letter — and had left it sitting around in a railway car. In some "mysterious manner" it had been delivered to Williamson's office.

To suggest the signature was genuine, in the face of RCMP testimony it was definitely forged, was effrontery.

He said the defendant's evidence was full of inconsistencies and his case full of improbabilities. On the witness stand under cross-examination, Williamson had been "badly shaken," even "rocked."

The defence counsel said the "Dear Hal" letter was one of the tasks that a modern politician leaves to his "shadow people," his "alter-egos."

It resembled the premier's relationship to the Social Credit party fund.

"The premier of this province does not abide mention of the words 'campaign funds' in his presence. But these funds are gathered. They are gathered by other hands for the premier."

"This is the age when the leader's personality is parcelled out... Williamson is a shadow, but he's always there. Every time the premier stands up, Williamson is there. He's a shadow. He's an alter-ego. He's another 'I'."

The trial, he said, had shown the "seamy side of politics, the working heart of the political machine."

Some Hope In Congo For Hostages

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) —

Hopes rose slightly Friday for about 50 rebel-held white hostages as Congolese troops backed their way through jungle searching for them.

The hostages are the remainder of about 100 held by fleeing rebel warriors. Forty-three have been reported massacred and 11 rescued.

While the mercenary-led government troops were inching through the jungle, army reconnaissance planes were trying to spot rebel movements from the air.

The progress report said the troops, led by Dublin-born Col. Michael (Mad Mike) Hoare and his mercenaries, still have not made contact with the rebels.

"It was tough to come in—and a little tough to get back into," said White. "It was sure tough to get into."

"We'd try to tell you your time was up and get back," said Grissom, "and we never could get through to you at all."

"Oh, is that right?" said White. "I'm glad you didn't."

"Yeah, I could tell that," said Grissom, laughing.

White did provide a word picture, however. He described the "vivid blue" waters of the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean and said he clearly saw Houston, Galveston Bay and even a small Texas lagoon, Clear Lake, as he floated on the end of his lifeline.

Neither astronaut was able to sleep too well during the alternately scheduled four-hour rest periods following the space walk.

However, each slept soundly during his second period. At one point White reported: "Look! It's like Jim's corked off pretty well. He hasn't stirred now the last hour and a half."

HE'S RELAXED! From $5 single, $7 double. You Too Can Relax at SHAWNEIGH BEACH HOTEL Phone 743-3333

White in turn gave Grissom some added details about his space stroll which occurred during Thursday's third orbit. Only after some urging did White return reluctantly to the space ship.

THE HARDEST part of the McDivitt - White mission, though hardly the most dramatic, will be for the astronauts just to sit around for the remainder of the voyage.

PASSED ON BULLETIN During a pass over the Houston control centre on the 14th orbit a capsule communicator Virgil Grissom passed along to White a neighborhood news bulletin for McDivitt, who was sound asleep.

"The Hawks won their pee-wee league (baseball game) 3-2," said Grissom. "They beat the Falcons." McDivitt's eight-year-old son Mike plays for the Hawks.

Gemini Men Sniff At $18.75 Meals

HOUSTON (AP) — Gemini-nauts Edward White and James McDivitt don't care much for the space meals, even though they cost $18.75 each, officials said Friday.

Food experts noted the space meals are behind schedule in their meals although "all the foods are fully flavored... everything is tasty."

Meanwhile, it was learned X-rays were made before the flight and will be afterward of their right little fingers and their heelbones.

The test is of bone demineralization, loss of density, a Soviet space problem after long periods of exposure to weightlessness and inactivity.

Keep Skin Clean and Dry To Prevent Painful Itch

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 33 and all winter long had a terrible itching of the membrane around the rectum. It even prevents sleep. I suppose others have this awful trouble?—L.S.

Yes, they do, but a great many people find relief by following two rules: Keep the area clean; keep it dry. (Two many don't realize the importance of that second point.)

The itching, after all, is a form of skin irritation. Scrupulous cleanliness keeps the skin free of irritants. But a continually moist skin is more vulnerable to irritation, too. So careful drying, followed by placing a small pledget or wad of absorbent cotton at the opening often does wonders.

Dear Doctor: I'm tired from lack of sleep due to dryness of the skin. No sooner do I lie down than my whole body starts to itch. Even the skin on my heels is rough.—G.F.F.

The answer to this may sound like a contradiction after the preceding emphasis on keeping membranes dry, but remember that there is a difference between surface moisture (or dryness) and the content of the tissues themselves.

It is true that the skin may become unduly dry, especially in winter, if one stays indoors much of the time, and there are no facilities for keeping the atmosphere at adequate humidity. That can be a factor.

LOSS OF OILS

But more important (and this applies more to older people than to young people) the skin seems to become "dry" because of loss of skin oils. These oils are given off by tiny glands. In youth these glands may be too active, contributing to acne. Later, they calm down. And still later they may become underactive.

Therefore, if you are of middle age or older, ask yourself whether you are washing away too much of this skin oil. Excessive baths can, in fact, harm your skin. Or, in addition, the skin may be sensitive to whatever soap you use.

Dear Dr. Molner: Whether it is my body, arms, legs or any other part, after I jump myself I am left with big black, blue and dark green spots. They stay for several weeks. Am I lacking something?—Mrs. A.K.

Calcium, maybe. This is one of the reasons why I keep emphasizing the value of milk (skim or regular) or cottage cheese, spinach, greens, etc., for adults.

In other cases these easily-acquired but hard-to-lose bruises mean that the capillaries, or very tiny blood vessels near the surface, are unusually fragile. And in a few cases some fault in the blood, a shortage of the constituents which encourage quick clotting, can be involved. For this, careful blood tests may be required. A bruise means bleeding beneath the skin.

The grand old man of Bromley approves of Gold Keg Beer.

Who in the world knows more about beer than an Englishman?

Heartily.

Alfie Wells has been drinking beer in and around Bromley for 40 years. You could call him an expert and few men would dare argue the matter.

That's why we were so pleased with Alfie's reaction to Canada's own Gold Keg Beer. He gave it a thorough test. Then he gave it his blessing.

Alfie said: "It's a luv'ly beer," and after another we sample he added, "A man could hardly do better!"

Hanoi Jets Sent By China?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. State Department said Friday it is possible China delivered the Soviet-built jet bombers sighted in North Viet Nam.

But a state department spokesman said he could not rule out Russia as the supplier of the planes, six to eight Ilyushin 28 twin-jet bombers spotted recently on an airfield in Hanoi, from where they could bomb Saigon.

Santo Domingo

Marines Leave For Home

SANTO DOMINGO (UPI)—The last U.S. Marine Corps contingents in Santo Domingo, some 2,100 strong, boarded ships Friday for an early return back to the U.S.

Their departure leaves 14,000 U.S. paratroopers of the 82nd Airborne Division and 2,000 Latin American troops in the inter-American peacekeeping force.

Marine takeoff plans coincided with a fresh look at the muddled Dominican political crisis by a three-man mediation team of the Organization of American States.

THIRD TRY

The negotiators—Ellsworth Bunker of the U.S., Ilmar Penna Marinho of Brazil and Ramon de Clairmont Duena of El Salvador—represent the OAS's third effort to bring peace here.

A previous five-man OAS peace team, on which Penna Marinho also served, and OAS secretary-general Jose Mora, failed in earlier mediation efforts.

UN representatives as well as top U.S. diplomats also have sought unsuccessfully to end the civil war.

At their peak, the Marines had more than 8,000 troops in the Dominican Republic. They were the first U.S. servicemen to land here last April 28.

'Wonderful' Marriage Annulled

OMAHA (AP)—Nancy Johnson, mother of Fritz Johnson's two children, is on her own following the annulment of their three-year marriage.

Johnson, 38, a TV announcer, was identified in February as Lawrence Bader of Akron, Ohio, who vanished in 1967, leaving a wife and four children.

Said Nancy, 24: "He's a wonderful man and I love him. He just doesn't remember his wife in Akron, his mother or his children there."

"And he loves children. He never could desert four of his own children. Why, he wouldn't even run a red light."

Viet Cabinet Dispute Solved

U.S. Maps Big Push

SAIGON (Reuters)—American troops may soon take the offensive against the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam, a high-ranking U.S. spokesman predicted Friday.

His announcement came shortly after U.S. marines landed back Viet Cong attacks near the key air base at Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon. Twenty-two Viet Cong and two marines were killed.

DISPUTE SETTLED

At the same time, South Vietnamese government leaders meeting for the second straight day solved a cabinet dispute but left hanging a political crisis over Roman Catholic opposition to the current administration.

In the aerial war, more than 20 U.S. Navy and Air Force fighter-bombers flew six separate raids into North Viet Nam during the day, bombing and strafing trucks, railway cars, military barracks, a radar site and bridges.

The U.S. spokesman's statement on the future role of American troops in South Viet Nam was the most forthright assurance yet that U.S. troops would be sent out to try to engage the Communists.

He said the time would come when the American troops "will play their role."

The spokesman referred to the series of major Viet Cong actions over the last week and said: "I believe the important battle of the summer of 1965 has just been joined."

He said the guerrillas are increasing the size and tempo of their operations but not changing their tactics.

AIR POWER

"I would be very surprised if they come out and fight a substantive action like Dien Bien Phu (the climatic battle of the French-Communist war in Indochina) in view of the air power we have," he said.

Questioned about increasing reports of North Vietnamese army units fighting in South Viet Nam, the spokesman reaffirmed that U.S. and South Vietnamese authorities have confirmed the presence of only one regular North Vietnamese battalion in Kon Tum province.

He said Viet Cong main force units which had been inactive in the mountains of central and northern South Viet Nam for many weeks now are reappearing armed with a new family of Chinese-made weapons which gives them greater firepower.

On the political front, the national legislative council announced in a communique that it has been agreed that Premier Phan Huy Quat would be empowered to dissolve the current interior and economics ministers and appoint replacements.

But it was emphasized that this would be the only occasion on which the premier would be allowed to do this, thus reaching a compromise in an eight-day-old cabinet dispute.

Japanese Violate Fish Line

JUNEAU (AP)—Five Japanese high seas salmon boats were detected operating late Friday in waters closed to them by the International North Pacific Fisheries Treaty, said the Alaska Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

Harry Rietz, regional director for the bureau, said a U.S. Coast Guard patrol plane with a bureau of commercial fisheries agent aboard spotted the five Japanese gillnetters.

The coast guard cutter Wachusett, on fisheries patrol in the area, was ordered to attempt to intercept the Japanese boats in closed waters. A fisheries bureau agent is also aboard the Wachusett.

Two of the Japanese catcher boats were spotted fishing at a point 60 miles south of Adak Island, in the Aleutians.

This location would place the two boats 28 miles east of the International North Pacific Fisheries Treaty abatement line. Three other boats were spotted at a point 30 miles south of Adak Island, 70 miles inside of the abatement line.

International Play

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE speculation in business circles as to the full story of Premier Bennett's negotiations with Japanese interests to set up an industrial empire in the northern coastal region of British Columbia.

The premier's statement is that plans are being developed for a Japanese-owned pulp mill and copper smelter near Stewart (B.C.'s most northerly port) and for a 1,000,000 kilowatt hydro electric plant on the Iskut River.

The Iskut is the main tributary of the Stikine River which flows southwesterly into the sea through the Alaska panhandle, and it is in the Iskut watershed that the U.S.-controlled Granduc Mines has its huge copper property.

Further north in the Stikine River basin, other U.S. and Canadian companies are doing preliminary work on what promises to be an even larger copper zone than Granduc's. In both cases development is hampered by fierce terrain and unfriendly weather.

Yet both Granduc and the Stikine copper properties are of such potential that it would be very much to British Columbia's, and Canada's advantage if the eventual product from these operations were refined into copper on the spot instead of being shipped abroad in the shape of mill concentrates.

As Japan is currently the main, very nearly the only, market for B.C. copper and iron ore, Mr. Bennett is being astute in offering other plums, in the shape of pulp, paper and hydro resources to our Oriental friends.

The interesting point, however, is that most of the big mining operations in the Stewart area are controlled by U.S. companies, and it had always been assumed that if the copper situation develops as well as is hoped, that such U.S. firms as Newmont, Kennecott and American Smelting and Refining would seek to get into the refining business themselves.

Maybe Mr. Bennett is using the Japanese to prod the U.S. firms into quicker and more decisive action in their B.C. operations. The B.C. premier always seeks to be in a good bargaining position.

This Is the Law

WHATEVER THE ultimate decision in the matter of the authority of Quebec's upper chamber, the legislative council, someone is going to be dissatisfied.

The situation, briefly, is that Premier Lesage's Liberal government would like to curb the powers of the upper chamber. But the upper chamber is controlled by Quebec's Opposition party, the Union Nationale, and is determinedly opposed to such reform.

Two conflicting petitions to Her Majesty, according to authorities on constitutional law, make a decision one way or another certain to disturb Quebec sensibilities. The losing side is going to blame the Queen, though without a shred of justification.

The Union Nationale leader, Daniel Johnson, has clearly indicated his attitude. He has repeatedly asserted that the question of reform in Quebec is not the responsibility of Her Majesty's government. He is wrong, of course. The British North America Act, which governs the situation, is a measure of imperial parliamentary origin. As long as it exists it must be under its terms that any change is made in Canada's constitution.

This is the law, and whether Mr. Johnson likes it or not, the Canadian Parliament and, indeed, the Quebec legislature stand stoutly in defence of it.

Then there is the preposterous attitude of the Union Nationale that this is a matter for the Queen's personal decision. They must know that whatever the outcome of this controversy it will be dictated by a recommendation from the Governor-General-in-Council, forwarded to Her Majesty's advisers and acted upon by the British Parliament. The only part the Queen will play is to give the matter royal assent, a purely automatic business of the sovereign's signature.

Mr. Johnson is not only abusive but misleading, to put it mildly, when he remarks that Her Majesty and the British government should "mind their own business" in the matter of Quebec reform. No doubt such utterances will be applauded by the more bigoted. But this most certainly is the business of Her Majesty's government. Canada—and obviously not Quebec—cannot amend or repeal the BNA Act, and can only advise. The decision, then, is the prime minister's and to put it elsewhere is a misrepresentation of fact.

Why Not Wait?

AS ONE OF THE most outspoken opponents of the Saanich plan to pour into Colquitz Creek another 35,000 gallons a day of treated sewage, Alderman Geoffrey Edgewood says he would rather see the Gorge polluted for a short time by septic tank runoff than the "purified" effluent being discharged into it indefinitely. This is a view to which many Gorge residents and citizens interested in the waterway as a source of healthful recreation probably will subscribe.

A metropolitan study due to be finished before the year is out may be expected to outline a program of sewerage to serve the Colquitz drainage basin as well as other areas of the Greater Victoria region where improvement is or will be needed.

But if an appeal against the Pollution Control Board's decision to permit Saanich to double the discharge of treated sewage into the creek is unsuccessful, it seems not unreasonable to fear that this will not only set a precedent for allowing a provincial government department to turn another 90,000 gallons a day of treated sewage into the Colquitz and thus into Portage Inlet and the Gorge, but greatly reduce in the eyes of Saanich municipality the urgency of providing a trunk service connecting with a more satisfactory outfall.

The Saanich authorities maintain the effluent will be almost as pure as tap water, after treatment and chlorination. Nevertheless there is the algae and weed-growth effect to be considered, for it has not been denied that the sewage will remain "fine fertilizer." Thus the additional discharge can be looked upon as a distinct threat to the much-restored recreational value of the Gorge waterway, if not directly in itself a menace to health.

The pollution board gave as a reason for its decision that the treatment of the sewage would offer better protection to public health than "the alternative available to the applicant, which is septic tanks."

This is the alternative for the moment. But the circumstances suggest that the best plan would be to hold back further development in the affected area for another year or so and make preparations to proceed at the earliest opportunity with proper sewer construction.

Umbrella Pact

A Washington View

Johnson Policy By-Passes UN

By DAVID MACLAREN

PRESIDENT Johnson was selected less than eight months ago for many reasons. One reason was that most voters were afraid of Goldwater's foreign policy. Barry was supposed to be trigger happy. It was feared that he would make too ready use of the military power of the United States, and so get the country into wars. But during the past few months an increasing number of people in Washington, not to mention left wing intellectuals at the universities have begun to wonder whether Johnson or Goldwater is conducting foreign affairs from the White House.

Johnson is no more an admirer of the UN apparently than is Goldwater.

Shortly after Johnson succeeded the late president, Adlai Stevenson was instructed to suggest at the UN that voting in the General Assembly should be modified to reflect more accurately the contributions of member states. Johnson, shrewdly conscious perhaps that as a great power the U.S. needs a stronger Security Council and a weaker General Assembly, has done little to assist the UN from the financial crisis and resultant deadlock in which it finds itself.

Secretary-General U Thant's efforts to be invited to mediate the Viet Nam war have been rebuffed by the White House. The administration has also worked hard to channel the diplomatic overtures of intervening in the Dominican Republic through the Organization of American States and not through the UN.

All in all, the Johnson administration is ignoring the UN as much as practicable, and there is little talk any more of the UN being the "main hope for peace of mankind."

About a year ago a Panamanian mob attacked some buildings in the edge of the U.S. Canal Zone while a few trained snipers used American troops and civilians as targets. The underlying causes and surface issues that resulted in this outbreak of violence are 50 years old. But this last time it was soon suspected and later proved that a hard-core of Communists, some Castro-trained, were prime instigators.

Such an incident two years ago would probably have resulted in prompt and significant concessions by the U.S. to this latest manifestation of Panamanian "sensitivities." Instead, President Johnson engaged in enough negotiations to ease tensions until the presidential election in Panama had passed. Then he disengaged.

The present U.S. position in effect is that the expected second canal will not be in Panama unless that country improves its behavior towards the nation that operates the existing one.

Ever since President Franklin Roosevelt's "Good Neighbor policy" it has been axiomatic around the state department that "a u-n-b-o-d-d-i-c-y" had passed into history. But in April the president sent marines into the Dominican Republic to safeguard the lives of Americans, without informing the OAS or the UN until later, as though we were back in Teddy Roosevelt's times. Perhaps the president really feared a majority Communist faction was taking over. In any event, the impact upon Latin America of "landing the marines" has still to be assessed, and it may prove on balance to be less grievous than once was thought.

President Kennedy must have entertained half the free world's heads of state or government at the White House. Every week on Thursday—or so it seemed—the flags of yet another visiting leader's nation decked the route into Washington from the airport. Yet another unfamiliar alien was photographed with the president. And yet another nation was announced next day to be the recipient of an extra foreign or military assistance loan.

President Johnson seems much less eager to have all these leaders of small countries visit Washington. Perhaps he does not want to take the time away from his desk and telephone. Even in the case of more important nations, as Prime Minister Shastri of India and President Ayub Khan of Pakistan have recently learned, public criticism of U.S. policies can lose one an invitation.

President Johnson seems to hold the strange notion that it means more to these foreign statesmen to visit him than for him to meet them.

Indonesia and Egypt have been "testing" the United States for years. Every now and then their governments have organized a "spontaneous" mob attack on the local U.S. embassy or Information Service Library. But the last time Egypt temporarily lost a lot of free food she badly needs and Indonesia has found herself at the end of the economic assistance road.

Finally, U.S. armed forces, under President Johnson's direction, are carrying the war to the north in Viet Nam. The bombers are shifting to targets ever nearer Hanoi. The North Vietnamese government may not crack but the pressure is being increased. U.S. Marines are making vigorous patrols into Viet Cong areas. The new man in the White House is openly using naked power to force a negotiated peace if he can.

Almost every important action President Johnson has taken concerning his country's interests abroad has been almost old-fashioned in its simplicity. Here is a man who apparently believes that national power is something to be used as a threat or fact. He does not follow academic teachings that a great power should deport itself as though a weak one. Obviously, this man never went to Harvard as a rich man's son, but in earning a fortune learned about life.

Insurance Up

We are informed that car insurance is going to cost still more. The reason given—more accidents than in the previous years. They (the insurance companies) deliberately omit to inform us that they have sold more and still more insurance to cover the greater number of cars on the road today.

It is a well known fact that there are two prices to repair a car that has been damaged: a standard price if the owner pays, and a higher price if the insurance company pays the shot.

The only solution that appears to me at the moment is to cut back one's car insurance to a minimum or do all one can to see that it (insurance) gets taken over by the provincial government.

The first reciprocity treaty for Canadian-American trade was negotiated by British and United States officials 111 years ago today—in 1854. It lasted until 1866, when the United States terminated it because of pro-South sentiment in Britain during the Civil War. Reciprocity, or free trade across the U.S. border, became an aim of the Liberal party after Confederation, but it was not until 1911 that a Liberal government coincided with a United States administration with the same views.

Ottawa Offbeat

'Buy British' Bid

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

IT was all so deliciously "in." Chubby, in such a quiet, well-bred way.

There was Sir Henry Lintott, handsome, young, British High Commissioner, polished and polished, impeccable in his diplomatically fashionable Saville Row lounge suit of property-hued Edinburgh Blue.

And there were his aides, four of them, flanking him, heads respectfully inclined, waiting solicitously on him with facts and figures, murmuring approval as things proceeded in such an orderly and entirely well-mannered way.

There were three of his Trade Commissioners, young, meticulously groomed, eyebrows properly arched in just the faintest hint of sophisticated boredom; and his chief information and public relations officer, suitably rumpled and professionally amiable.

They were ranged, crisply alert yet elegantly casual, in an impressively-tailored line at an executive conference table in the new, luxuriously-appointed $1,000,000 high-rise headquarters of the High Commission, on Confederation Square here in the Capital.

Ranged before them were perhaps 36 of the big 147-member Parliamentary Press Corps.

Over in the corner, tucked unobtrusively in front of a tastefully draped wall was a small, well-stocked bar where two white-coated Ganymedes waited at respectful attention to begin the business of refreshment.

But first, before gin-and-tonic and Scotch-and-water, there was business.

When all who were interested in this new conference to outline Britain's "great new trade initiative"—particularly the resident correspondents of London's august Times, the Daily Express, the Telegraph and the Daily Mail—had assembled in the high-vaulted reception hall, Sir Henry entered, followed in file by his four aides, nodded good morning, folded his lean self into a chair, shuffled his papers and intoned "Gentlemen."

With the discriminatory anti-dumping duties being removed by Finance Minister Walter Gordon's budget, the British were mounting what Sir Henry smiled thinly was "a great trade drive to close the deficit gap with you people."

The gap, pointed out the Financial Times, had been pretty wide recently and getting wider annually, running upwards of $700 million by last count—so was that, then, the target?

Target, asked Sir Henry. Was that the usual thing, a target?

Good idea to have something definite to shoot at, some bull's eye on which to draw a bead, observed Times Magazine. With a target you know how you're doing, how close you're coming.

But what?

Later, an associate editor of a Metro daily and a friend of Sir Henry was to quietly tell him that had such a situation and question confronted the American ambassador, there would have been instant action . . . a snapping of fingers and orders, and the missing parts for the heater, or perhaps even a whole new assembly flown up at once, right this minute if not sooner, from Detroit, Akron or Chicago.

It was the difference, he said, between laissez faire and go-go. Was it? Or was it something else?

But what?

And that did for the conference. It was dead.

And that did for the conference. It was dead.

Later, an associate editor of a Metro daily and a friend of Sir Henry was to quietly tell him that had such a situation and question confronted the American ambassador, there would have been instant action . . . a snapping of fingers and orders, and the missing parts for the heater, or perhaps even a whole new assembly flown up at once, right this minute if not sooner, from Detroit, Akron or Chicago.

It was the difference, he said, between laissez faire and go-go. Was it? Or was it something else?

Grey Eminence of B.C. Politics

Gunderson

By STEPHEN SCOTT
VANCOUVER (CP) — Einar Gunderson, who took the spotlight briefly in the "Dear Hal" trial this week, has been a grey ghost in British Columbia politics for years.

He has never been fully in politics and never fully out of it. Although it is 14 years since he was a member of the Legislature, the name of the heavy-set, grey-haired chartered accountant and former Alberta civil servant frequently figures prominently in some political matter.

Mr. Gunderson was a witness at the trial of Al Williamson, Vancouver public relations man found guilty on forgery charges connected with the letter sent to Hal Dornan, an aide to Prime Minister Pearson, and bearing the alleged signature of Premier W. A. C. Bennett.

Williamson said Mr. Gunderson was Premier Bennett's closest associate.

He said he, Williamson, had done political work for both and had collected money for a Social Credit political fund managed by Mr. Gunderson.

He had discussed political matters with Mr. Gunderson before talking to Mr. Bennett. Mr. Gunderson had suggested writing the letter to Mr. Dornan—a letter that supported the unsuccessful application of American millionaire Harry Stonehill for landed immigrant status.

government-owned Pacific Great Eastern railway, a position he still holds. He is vice-president, finance, of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority, a member of the ferry authority which controls North America's largest ferry fleet, and a director of the government's proposed Bank of B.C.

(Mr. Strachan made the Kilroy reference when commenting on Mr. Gunderson's appointment to the last position.)

He is government appointee to the board of governors of the University of B.C.

Mr. Gunderson is a former director of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Black Ball Ferry Co., and Western B.C. Development Co. All these companies have had dealings with the government—Black Ball was expropriated—and opposition speakers have made their conflict of interest charges in connection with them.

The charges also mention that Mr. Gunderson is a collector for the political fund and an officer of government entities. Critics say that he cannot serve two masters.

To all attacks Mr. Gunderson has answered he has acted with the interests of the province in mind, that he has made no money because of his close connection with the government. He has denied the conflict of interest charges.

Mr. Gunderson once said: "I have lost money knowing Mr. Bennett. If he knows I am associated with any venture he steers off it. I've given up directorship offers because I've known that some people think I've got an 'in'... I suppose I've got an 'in' on the fact of it but it simply isn't true that I've taken advantage of it."

Mr. Gunderson was born in Cooperstown, N.D., in 1889, and educated at the University of Saskatchewan. He joined the Alberta department of mines in 1930 after five years as a chartered accountant in Edmonton.

He became superintendent of income tax in the province in 1933 and went back to chartered accountancy in 1936. He moved to Vancouver in 1945 and has been a practicing chartered accountant here ever since.

Scottish Remember D-Day
The Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) will commemorate the 21st anniversary of D-Day with a sunset ceremony at 8:30 p.m. today.

About 30 militiamen will parade from the Post Office to the legislature at about 8:30 p.m.

At the Cenotaph, a wreath will be laid, and drummers will beat Retreat.

The ceremony comes on the eve of D-Day anniversary.

Pearkes to Visit Island Villages

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will leave from Esquimalt June 13 aboard HMCS Mackenzie to begin his annual tour of island villages, Government House announced Friday.

His first stop will be Christie Indian Residential School near Tofino. He will go from there to visit Kyquot and Winter Harbor, ending his trip June 16 at Port Alice.

Frequently Attacked

The Opposition seldom misses an opportunity to attack Mr. Gunderson—who hasn't sat in the Legislature since 1953—and charges him with conflict of interest.

Robert Strachan, New Democratic Party leader, once called him B.C.'s Kilroy, after the ever-present slogan of war years—"Kilroy was here."

Mr. Gunderson was finance minister from 1953 to 1954. He resigned after he was defeated in a general election and a by-election.

Versatile Figure

Since then he has had a variety of positions. He was adviser to Mr. Bennett who took over the finance portfolio from him and has held it ever since. He was general manager, then executive vice-president of the

University Fund $807,000

The Vancouver Island division of the Tri-University capital fund has reached $807,000, it was reported Friday at a meeting of the management committee.

Nearly all that sum is from the Greater Victoria area. Returns from other island points are just beginning to come in.

The provincial fund, which has an objective of $25,000,000, stands at $15,000,000. Island objective is $1,000,000.

'Took No Advantage'

He admitted in court this week that he has taken an active interest in the affairs of the government and the party. He added he did it for the "good of the province."

Pioneer Resident Amy Storey Dies

Pioneer Victoria resident Mrs. Amy Kathleen Storey died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday. She was 78.

Victoria-born, Mrs. Storey taught school here before her marriage.

She attended school at North Ward and Victoria High before going to normal school in Vancouver.

She taught school for a year on Mayne Island, then returned to the city, where she taught at Victoria West School and Girls' Central School for a further 11 years.

Mrs. Storey's grandfather was Richard Woods, who came to Victoria from Ireland in 1880. He was registrar of the Supreme Court.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Andrew. Mr. Andrew was an accountant. She married George Storey in 1916.

They had two children, John, a lieutenant in the RCNVR who was killed aboard the Valleyfield during the Battle of the Atlantic, and Kay, now Mrs. J. W. Sproule of Seattle.

Mrs. Storey was active with the women's auxiliary of All Saints' Church in View Royal. She was a lifetime member of the women's auxiliary of the Anglican Church and a member of the Pioneer Society.

She is survived by her husband, at home, 561 View Royal Avenue, her daughter, four grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. M. Kirkpatrick Crockett of Victoria, and Mrs. George Wilson of Vancouver.

Funeral services will be held in McCall's chapel at 1 p.m. Monday with Rev. John Vickers officiating.

Gertrude Pringle

Former newspaperwoman and author Gertrude Edwina Eaton Pringle, 82, of Victoria, died Wednesday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Cremation will follow funeral services at 1 p.m. today at Chaplin's Chapel, Fort Street. Rev. Angus Cameron will officiate.

Mrs. Pringle, who had been in hospital for two years, came to Victoria after her marriage to Hugh Pringle of Penikese. After his death she returned to her native Toronto, where she wrote and published a book of etiquette.

The niece of nature writer Ernest Thompson Seton, she had been a member of the staff of the old Toronto Globe, which later became the Globe and Mail. She also wrote articles for Chatelaine magazine.

Mrs. Pringle is survived by a brother in Australia and a sister-in-law, Miss Marion Pringle, in Penikese.

Oliver Prentice

Funeral services for Oliver M. Prentice, 4312 Houlburn Place, will be held at 2:15 p.m. Monday at McCall Bros. main chapel.

Archbishop A. E. G. Hendy will officiate at the services, to Harbor Flap Ends Happily

Police usually experience slight qualms when a report comes through to investigate "something" floating in the harbor. Friday was no exception—but the report has a happy ending.

Police found a wayward pooch had either slipped or taken a dive from the seaplane float in the inner harbor. The soggy animal was fished out and sent homeward.

New Council

Cowichan Indian Island Adviser

DUNCAN — Cowichan Indian band member Phillip Paul has been elected to represent Vancouver Island Indians on the regional Indian advisory council for British Columbia and the Yukon. It was learned here this week.

Mr. Paul was one of six candidates for the council position. The others were Robert Clifton of the Comox band, Lawrence Lewis of the Cape Mudge band, both of the Kwakwaka'wakw agency; Ross Modeste of the Cowichan band and William Bush of the Nanaimo band, both of the Cowichan agency, and Jack Peter of the west coast agency.

Woman, 86 Hit by Car

An 86-year-old woman hit by a car while crossing Douglas at McKenzie was in fairly good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital Friday night.

Mrs. A. F. Cunningham, 661 McKenzie, received head and leg injuries when hit by a car driven by Gordon V. Kipp, of Jordan River.

Of the four zones within the area served by the regional council, Mr. Paul will represent Zone No. 1 covering Vancouver Island.

Others represented in the advisory council will be one delegate from the rest of the Yukon, the Native Brotherhood of B.C., the North American Indian Brotherhood, and a delegate to be appointed from the Home-makers' Clubs of B.C. and the Yukon.

THREE YEARS
All members of the advisory council will serve for three years and one of their main jobs will be to analyze and evaluate the proposals made to the council by representatives of the federal and provincial governments.

Indian agent Ronald Sampson of the Cowichan agency said it is also intended to set up a "national Indian advisory board composed of members of regional councils from all across Canada. Four delegates will be sent from the B.C.-Yukon region, one of which will represent the Yukon. The national Indian advisory council will meet when required with the minister of citizenship and immigration.

Dunkerque Sees Little Ships 25 Years After

DUNKERQUE, France (CP)—Some of the little ships that saved an army 25 years ago returned Friday to Dunkerque to remind the world how they gave beleaguered democracy a chance to catch its breath.

More than 40 of the 700 little ships that helped rescue more than 300,000 British, French and Belgian troops from these French beaches in 1940 sailed again from England's Kent coast to commemorate the event that Winston Churchill called a miracle.

ALL KINDS

Fishing boats and pleasure yachts, a tug, a fire-boat, and even an outsize rowboat made the English channel crossing Friday in holiday mood. It was in sharp contrast to the atmosphere of death, near-death and destruction when most of the ancient craft were last in Dunkerque snatching the British expeditionary force from the jaws of Hitler's armies.

Escorted by three Royal Navy vessels that dwarfed the miniature armada, the little boats left Ramsgate at dawn and made a rendezvous near the South Goodwin Lightship off Dover.

There, under grey skies on a choppy channel, they formed a convoy. The more ancient craft soon lagged behind their fancier sisters.

TAKEN IN TOW

A 13-foot rowboat named the Tamzine, fitted with an outboard motor for the 42-mile crossing, finally had to be taken in tow by the admiralty vessel Warraket, though the Tamzine's owner, Bob Bennett, had wanted his little boat to make the trip on its own.

Twenty-five years ago the Tamzine crossed to Kent alone. She was a lifeboat whose ship was blown up beneath her. She picked up a load of troops, ferried them to a warship offshore, then crossed the channel.

Sylvia Lightoller, 80, chartered her late husband's yacht, the Sundowner, to make the trip from Richmond on the Thames in her husband's memory. Cmdr. Charles Lightoller, a merchant navy officer who died in 1922, was senior surviving officer of the Titanic when the White Star liner struck an iceberg and sank on her maiden voyage in 1912. He saved 150 men from the Dunkerque beaches in 1940.

The first of Friday's armada reached the lighthouse outside Dunkerque harbor at just about 2:33 p.m., 25 years to the minute after the British admiralty had signalled the end to Operation Dynamo, a nine-day venture in which the little boats of south-east England helped the navy save 198,315 British troops and 128,911 French and Belgian.

Where Stukas screamed down in dive-bombing raids 25 years ago, a few lazy gulls circled Friday, attracted by the colorful signal flags and by the pennants of St. George of England flying from each mast for this occasion.

Church Approves Legal Abortions

TORONTO (CP)—Legal abortion, under certain circumstances, was approved Friday by delegates at the Toronto Central presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

The resolution said abortions should be permitted in cases where a pregnancy resulted from rape or incest or if the child would be born with grave physical or mental defects.

Delegates also agreed abortions should be made legal

Millions for Creative Industry

OTTAWA (UPI)—The federal government Friday offered to pick up part of the tab for research and development of new products or methods in a bid to get Canadian industry "creative-conscious."

Industry Minister C. M. Drury told the Commons the government will set aside $3,000,000 this year for the special program. The plan is also aimed at keeping scientific talent in Canada and boosting the economy by creating new products and incentives.

An industry department source said the government share may go as high as $50,000,000 a year as the program progresses.

Drury said the scheme, called "the program for the advancement of industrial technology," is to help industry help itself.

The government will underwrite industrial projects and won't ask for the money back—unless they pay off.

All title to patents, designs, information and equipment resulting from a government-private enterprise scheme will belong to the company involved.

If the firm makes millions of dollars out of a government-financed discovery, all it has to give the government is the amount it paid in.

The government will take part in a project only if it involves "a genuine technical advance" and has good prospects of making money.

So said Jack Davis, Liberal MP for Coast-Capilano, in a talk to the Victoria Men's Laurier Club Friday.

In a controversial address, the prime minister's parliamentary secretary scouted the suggestion that the corporation could turn out to be a "gigantic $1,000,000,000 financial flop."

FOR PROFIT
"The new corporation has profit making as its first and indeed primary objective," he said. "It will not be loaded with money-losing Crown corporations which are often millstones round the nation's neck."
But it would take over the paying ones, such as Polymer, changing it from a purely socialistic venture into an organization "paying income and other taxes and publishing annual statements in the same way as any well-run, privately-owned company."

INTRODUCTION
Mr. Davis said the CDC was devised as a method of introducing the Canadian investor into great Canadian enterprises.
It would become the small man's investment agency, operating like a mutual fund, designed to make a profit and to channel Canadian savings into growth industries, that without this aid would have to turn to foreign fields for their capital requirements.

The Liberal party feels Canadians are a queer mixture when it comes to picking an investment portfolio.

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

They are the world's biggest gamblers in penny stocks, according to Mr. Davis, and at the same time they buy heavily into the ultra safe securities like Canada Savings Bonds.

He said the reason is that stock ownership in large Canadian enterprises is not always easy to come by, as many of these companies are 100 per cent foreign owned.

The Liberals think the CDC can fill this void.

LIKE SAVINGS BONDS
"You and I will be able to buy shares in this company just like we can buy Canada Savings Bonds, and the company in its turn will do its utmost to buy into resource development and other going concerns whose ownership, otherwise would rest entirely in foreign hands."

The CDC is not an exercise in state socialism, nor is it a club to be used against foreign investment in this country.

Indeed Mr. Davis went on to observe that it was only a tiny little piece of socialism.

10 PER CENT
"Ottawa itself will own less than 10 per cent of the shares. It will only appoint a few directors out of the two dozen recruited from the nation's financial and business community. It will be run like any private enterprise."

Mr. Davis said the big question was whether we are prepared to put our faith in a government launched enterprise whose management will seek to keep more of our efficient firms owned and controlled in this country.

TO COMPLETE
Mr. Davis's explanation of CDC indicates that the new crown corporation is in reality going into competition with the existing mutual funds, which are pouring millions of savings dollars into Canadian enterprises.

Unlike the mutual funds, which have no ambitions towards company control, and in-

Within five years, Mr. Jacobson predicts, it will employ 300 and produce 40,000 tons of wire per year.

Japanese Partners In Plant

TOKYO — The first B.C. Japan joint venture in secondary industry has been formally launched here.

The Mitsui group of companies and Kobe Steelworks Ltd. entered a partnership with Hercules Steel of Vancouver to build a $2,000,000 wire-drawing plant in North Surrey.

NEAR ELEVATOR
Morris Jacobson, president of Hercules Steel, said the signing of the agreement completes three years of negotiations. Work on the 130,000-square-foot plant will begin immediately on the banks of the Fraser River near the grain elevator.

The plant will begin production as soon as construction is completed with a work force of about 100.

FIGURES GIVEN

deed are in most cases barred from doing so by their incorporation, the new CDC will not only be a fund manager but also controller of the companies it owns.

As such its appeal to the investing public will depend not on fine words of its sponsors but on its performance. If it outshines the mutual funds it will prosper; if it doesn't its investment appeal will dwindle.

BIGGEST OF TYPE
The Royal Trust's conventional mortgage fund has grown from $15,000,000 to $24,500,000 in the year ended March 31.

This makes it the largest of its type in Canada, according to H. E. Trenholme, general manager of the Royal Trust Classified Investment Funds for pension trusts.

The Trust's common stock fund—72 per cent in Canadian stocks—rose in the same period with assets worth $35,318,000 of which $14,006,000 was accumulated profit and unrealized appreciation.

'Freedom for Freedom'

Merger a Trade to United Church Leader

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Any union between the Anglican Church and the United Church must allow a wide range of philosophical and theological disagreement, Rt. Rev. Ernest Howe, moderator of the United Church, said Friday.

He said he would support such a union "if the Anglican Church is prepared to grant me the freedom I'm prepared to grant its members."

"Church union must provide for an exceedingly wide spectrum of philosophical and theological disagreement."

There is a major difference now in the governments of the two churches, he said.

In the Anglican Church, individual bishops hold power.
In the United Church, power lies in a series of courts... never in a person. The moderator is the presiding officer but it is the court that decides."

The United Church will insist on preservation of freedom of worship for its members and its clergy who are not required to give assent to any verbal creed.

Anglican clergy must attest to Nicene Creed and to the church's 39 principles.

Joining the churches is different to any merger of two great corporations, Dr. Howe said.

LEGAL ASPECTS

"There are also the legal aspects of land titles, bequests, pension funds and the fact that the United Church alone owns $300,000,000 worth of real estate."

Another problem lies in church organization.

In City Churches

Massed choirs of the United Churches of Greater Victoria will sound out hymns of praise at 7:30 p.m. in Metropolitan United in a presbytery service celebrating the 40th anniversary of church union.

It was on June 10, 1925, that Congregationalists, Methodists and most Presbyterians joined to form the United Church of Canada.

Speaker at the special service, which will be broadcast over
C.I.V.I., will be Rev. Earle Gordon of Winnipeg.

Also appearing in the pulpit, to bring greetings, will be Bishop Remi de Roo of the Roman Catholic Church, Archbishop J.
W. Firth on behalf of the Canadian Council of Churches and Ald. C. M. Parrott representing the city.

The formal service will be preceded by a congregational hymn sing at 7:15 p.m. under the direction of Frank Tupper.
The massed choirs will be conducted by Capt. J. M. Gayer with Eric Boothroyd at the organ.

At 11 a.m. in Metropolitan the sermon topic of Rev. Albert King will be the proposals for church

Only Ex-Moderator

Morning anniversary services, minister of First Presbyterian at 9:30 and 11 a.m. in First United will have as preacher the only ex-moderator elected from and still living in the West—John Dunbar. In the evening, First United, together with the other United Churches in the area, will join the anniversary service at Metropolitan.

Canon C. Hilary Butler will be guest speaker at the 10 a.m. family service in St. David by the St. David Anglican Church, Oak Bay. The service arranged for 7:30 p.m. by vicar H. Gordon Walker is on the theme: Church people seek to help adolescents.

Leighton Ford Crusade Seeks Choir Candidates

Organizational meetings are being held this month for ushers, choir singers, youth leaders and home prayer group leaders who will be participating in the Leighton Ford Crusade Sept. 5 to 19 in Memorial Arena.

Each church in Victoria has been asked by the crusade committee to have four youth-work representatives present at a youth leaders' planning session June 12 at Metropolitan United Church.

"Prayerful and diligent planning is necessary if a real and lasting impact is to be made on the youth of Victoria," said Paul Leonard of the Graham team, who has established offices for the crusade at suite 200 in the Bentall Building, 1070 Douglas Street.

Those who would like to join the crusade choir or act as ushers are invited to attend a planning session June 16 at the Salvation Army Citadel, or June 16 at First Baptist Church.

LADIES' RALLY

The choir meeting at each place on each date will be from 7 to 8 p.m.; the ushers, from 8 to 9 p.m.

The 600 women who are expected to make their homes available for morning prayer meetings before and during the crusade have been invited to a pre-crusade ladies' rally at 10:30 a.m. June 26 in the Victoria High School auditorium.

BROADCASTS

The rally will also be addressed by Mrs. Eleanor Whitney of Long Island, New York, who was converted in the 1957 New York Billy Graham Crusade.

Home prayer meetings will begin at 10:30 a.m. July 13 and will be held each Tuesday and Thursday thereafter till the end of the crusade. Focal point for the groups will be Home Prayer Time broadcasts to be carried each 10:30 a.m. prayer-time morning over CKDA.

RESERVATIONS

Arrangements are also being made for Vancouver Island participation in the July Leighton Ford-Billy Graham Crusade at British Empire Stadium.

June 15 has been set as reservation deadline for special bus transportation for the July 1 meeting, at which Leighton Ford will speak, and the July 3 meeting at which Billy Graham will speak.

TICKETS $5

Crusade coaches will leave Victoria at 2 p.m. on each of these dates and will arrive back after midnight.

The cost—return—will be $5. Those interested are asked to phone 353-8501 or mail reservations to Victoria crusade offices.

In Victoria a new series of Christian Witness classes for prospective converts— or those just interested in taking the course—will be conducted in July at 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Tuesday series will be in Oaklands Chapel, Cedar Hill Road and Fernwood, and the Thursday classes in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Every self-governing Greek city had an "ecclesia" or "church," similar to a city council, for purposes of legislation and administration.

While the Christian church had purposes of government, to affirm faith in "the holy catholic church" meant far more than this.

Nor is the church a mere human yearning. The New Testament maintains the church is "the pillar and ground of the truth," custodian of "the manifold wisdom of God," medium of revelation, Bride of the world's Redeemer, "body of Christ," "household of faith," "temple of God" and a "brotherhood" which recognized no boundaries of race or class.

A Part of Salvation

To contend that the church is not necessary to salvation is to contradict all one knows, not only of the Christian faith, but of psychology. The church is not merely one institution among many. It is eternal and universal, founded by the Son of God.

Though her members have many shortcomings, the church is "holy," triumphing over the collapse of civilizations and never-ceasing persecutions. She not only has the ministry of worship, education, fellowship and social conscience, but also the ministry of communication through the sacraments of the grace of God.

To call all Christians saints may seem presumptuous since most are very human, but it refers to the fellowship of those who handled holy things rather than the fellowship of holy men. They held the precious treasure of God in Christ and, like Paul, "pressed on toward the mark."

Lord's Guarantee

They held it, however, in community, in the visible and the invisible church, in the fellowship of those known by men and those only to God, in the fellowship of the living and those who had died and entered eternal life.

Ever since the very first day men have been trying to disprove the Resurrection. The resurrection of Jesus, as St. Paul says, is the guarantee of the resurrection of His followers.

Resurrection is an essential experience of all who believe in Him. Jesus is the first fruits of those who have fallen asleep.

Without the Resurrection there would have been no Christian church and there can be no Christian church.

Only as man turns in humble faith does the Holy Spirit reveal the ultimate truth that "Death is swallowed up in victory... Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable..."

Reserve bank statistics showed foreign assets declined last week to a record low level of 773,400,000 rupees (about $162,000,000).

Only a handful of Victoria men will be among 75 experts in neuropsychology who will confer at University of Victoria today and Sunday.

The conference will hear discussion of brain damage, and the effect of irregularities in the brain and nervous system on human behavior.

Dr. G. A. Milton, associate professor of psychology at the University of Victoria, is chairman of the Learned Societies-sponsored conference.

LAB RESULTS

Dr. W. H. Gaddes, head of the psychology department at the university, will take part in discussions.

Dr. Charles Gregory of the Mental Health Centre in Victoria will also attend. Discussions will involve latest laboratory results, and methods of applying these findings about brain damage.

Dr. Ralph Reitan of Indiana University and Dr. Samuel Rabinovitch of McGill will discuss diagnosis.

SPEECH PROBLEM

Dr. Arthur Benton, University of Iowa, and Dr. Maurice Freehill, University of Washington, will speak on handling the difficulties of brain-damaged children learning to speak.

Dr. Karl Pribram of Stanford and Dr. David Kendall of UBC will discuss the relating of laboratory studies to the treatment of patients.

Recent research will be handled by Dr. Gaddes and Dr. Robert Knights, Children's Psychiatric Research Institute, London, Ont.

Thunderstorm Hits Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP)—A violent thunderstorm struck Winnipeg, bringing half an inch of rain, blacking out houses and street lights and dumping hailstones which broke thousands of panes of glass at three University of Manitoba greenhouses. Three radio stations were also put off the air and television was affected briefly.

EXPRESS NEEDS WELDS

The 125 m.p.h. Tokaido railway express, in Japan, needs rails which are welded together, instead of bolted.

B.C. Murder Charged

NEW WESTMINSTER — Marjorie Beatrice Porterfield, 20, died instantly when she was hit in the back by a rifle bullet as she walked between two friends on her way to work.

Police charged her brother-in-law, Frederick Myron Turner, with capital murder. They said a killer hid in the bushes beside the quiet North Surrey residential street for several hours and fired from about 50 yards.

ROME — Actress Gina Lollobrigida, 36, expressed shock after a public prosecutor charged her and seven other people with obscenity in connection with the movie Le Bacio—The Kiss.

VERNON — Penticton lawyer Donald J. C. Rabinovitch was given a year in jail for criminal negligence causing a death and impaired driving after a Jan. 17 Penticton area car-motorcycle crash killed motorbike rider Stanley McKinnon, 17.

WASHINGTON — President Johnson announced he will call a White House conference this fall aimed at helping Negroes achieve their full rights.

DAR ES SALAAM — Police armed with sub-machine-guns kept watch as Chinese Premier Chou En-lai was driven through cheering crowds at the beginning of a four-day visit to Tanzania.

HAMPDEN, Mass. — Thornton W. Burgess, 51, who retired five years ago after a lifetime of writing about Peter Rabbit and his friends, was reported in a coma and near death.

ORILLIA, Ont. — Teacher Rita Peany became engaged to William Melville Money.

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Pearson congratulated President Johnson on the latest U.S. space effort, the Gemini flight.

TORONTO — Canadian soprano Lois Marshall, given an honorary doctorate of law at the University of Toronto, replied with a nine-song program instead of a speech.

QUEBEC CITY — With a switch in the name of the provincial department, Attorney-General Claude Wagner became Justice Minister Claude Wagner.

WASHINGTON — U.S. President Johnson and Chancellor Erhard of West Germany pledged to maintain "intimate and dynamic" alliance. They issued a joint communique after a visit by Erhard.

WORCESTER, England — Former beauty queen Maxine Grainger, 20, agreed to marry milkman Peter Thickbroome, 21, if he would change his name to Broome, and he said yes. She feared "other girls ragging me . . . Mrs. Thickbroome and her little brushes and that sort of thing."

MIAMI BEACH — Sue Ann Downey, 20, and 33-24-35, of Ohio, won the Miss U.S.A. beauty pageant and will represent the U.S. in the Miss Universe contest in July.

LONDON — Cabinet official Douglas Jay said Britain will not ban the sale of four-wheel-drive trucks to South Africa by a U.S. firm. The vehicles are a British form of trucks which can be converted to armored vehicles.

LONDON — Sources close to Prime Minister Wilson said that despite several major setbacks in Parliament, the Labor party leader is confident of an upsurge in voter support later this year when an election is likely.

NEW YORK — The Canadian Club of New York awarded its gold medalion of popular-fiction novelist Thomas B. Costain, 80, of Brantford, Ont.

TOKYO — Prime Minister Sato fired all but one of the 17 cabinet ministers he inherited when he took office six months ago, keeping only Foreign Minister Shibusawa, 65.

OTTAWA — Murray Ross, president of Toronto's York University, says community colleges are the only answer Canada has to catching up with the U.S. in university education, because they can be built and operated at about half the cost of universities.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. — Canada probably will show a smaller trade surplus and a large balance-of-payments deficit this year compared with 1964, Trade Minister Sharp said.

Censorship Storm Buffets Italy

ROME (UPI)—An attempt to tighten film censorship threatened Friday to crack

Premier Aldo Moro's government coalition wide open and start Italy's 22nd postwar crisis.

Liquor Tax Hike Asked

QUESNEL (CP) — Northern B.C. Municipal leaders have urged doubling the liquor tax municipalities now collect from licensed restaurants.

The proposal, passed by 35 delegates to the North Central B.C. Municipal Associations' convention, was sent to the Union of B.C. Municipalities for presentation to the provincial government.

Christian Democrat Moro was trying to appease his indignant Socialist, Social Democratic and Republican government partners.

The three smaller parties in the government were up in arms over a vote Thursday night in which the Christian Democrats teamed up with Monarchists and neo-Fascists to ram through an amendment to a cinema bill.

The vote of 219 to 195 in favor of the amendment was a slap in the face for Socialist Tourism and Entertainment Minister Achille Corona, who drafted the bill. The Socialists threatened to pull out of the government unless the amendment is reversed in the Senate.

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's first "pirate" television station will start operating within the next few weeks, a U.S. company announced here Thursday.

The company — Radex TV — said it hopes to attract an audience of 5,000,000 with plays, taped recording sessions by British pop groups and news programs.

The programs, beamed to London, east and west England and midland areas of the country, will originate from a 3,000-ton former cargo vessel under Panamanian registry anchored outside territorial waters in the English Channel.

Several pirate radio stations now are operating from ships off the British coast to beat the ban on radio broadcasting other than by the BBC.

U.K. Rodeo Bites The Dust

LONDON (CP)—An ambitious $200,000 project to stage a Canadian cowboy-and-Indian rodeo at Blackpool has collapsed, stranding seven Canadian cowboys and their 32 horses.

J. R. Brown, a director of Transatlantic Exhibition Services Limited, which had sponsored the project, said Friday he has warned other cowboys and a band of Canadian Indians from Ontario to stay home.

Chuck Algett of Niagara Falls, Ont., one of the cowboys, said: "We had been told that the buildings in Blackpool for our show had been pretty well completed and that we would have a big summer run—from June to September."

Officials praised "But the financial backers apparently didn't have enough money. We brought over 32 horses, a mule and six chuck-wagons. The shipping line now may confiscate the horses because their passage has not been paid."

Algett praised officials of the Royal Lancashire Agricultural Show for assisting the cowboys, all from Ontario. Blackpool Alderman Albert Ashworth is providing 12 acres of grazing land for the horses. Algett said he and his chums are sleeping in stables.

Dance Revue 'Delightful'

By BERT BINNY

The Spotlight on Dance Revue, presented by the Vivian Briggs Studios and sponsored by the Multiple Sclerosis Society, has color, snap and lots of entertainment value.

Practically all of the numbers are short and bright, most of the choreography well laid and artfully conceived. And, as it is never too ambitious, it is almost always nicely executed.

CONTRIBUTIONS

Guest artists Ken Bailey and George Marshall made significant contributions to the success of the show, the former a thoroughly acceptable singer and the latter a dancer of exceptional brilliance whose timing and characterization add tremendously to already delightful performances.

A full house at Oak Bay Junior High School received the whole show enthusiastically.

Humorous Prelate Soaked His Guests

SALZBURG, Austria — Being an archbishop may sound like a rather staid job, but Marcus Sitlikus approached "archbishops" in the 17th century with a sense of humor.

Marcus became archbishop of Salzburg and the ruler of the district in 1612, and a year later he began construction of the Hellbrunn Schloss, a summer residence with some of the characteristics of a dignified Disneyland.

The palace, built in the style of the late-Renaissance Italian villa, was completed in a remarkably short two years. Three and a half centuries later its buildings are still superb and its gardens magnificent.

But what makes Marcus Sitlikus' summer residence different from any other historical building (and to the North American, Europe sometimes seems to be a tiny piece of land stretching between thousands of historical buildings) is its wasserspiele or water-games.

In constructing a palace which would give relief from the summer heat, the bishop and his architect, believed to be Santino Solari, took advantage of numerous icy underground springs. Grottoes were carved into the rocks and cool fountains constructed.

NOT ENOUGH

But being cool wasn't quite enough for the archbishop. His outdoor wine-table is a large rectangular affair with 10 seats around it. Water runs through a trough in the middle of the table which was used for keeping the wine cool.

Nine of the 10 seats have harmless-looking, two-inch-square holes in them, but the 10th, at the head of the table where the bishop sat, is a solid slab of stone.

And, as the guides point out with a glint in their collective eye, the archbishop's guests occasionally used to become tipsy. At that point and on a signal from the bishop, the water came on—nine powerful freezing jets of it shooting up through the seats of the inebriated guests while the archbishop watched in dry comfort.

FOR SOBER, TOO

But Marcus' sense of humor was not reserved for the intoxicated. On each side of the entrance to the beautiful Neptune Grotto stand two stage heads—and concealed in the tips of each antler are tiny nozzles through which the archbishop could drench the unwary passer-by.

Through this section of the grounds, water-jets are hidden in the paths, steps, floors, trees and archways. The archbishop's guests never knew when one of the many attractive waterfalls might fall on them.

New 'Queen' To Cost $76,281,000

LONDON (AP)—Cost of the proposed Q-4 transatlantic liner—the British ship designed to succeed the Queen Mary has been set at $76,281,000.

The 58,000-ton Cunard liner is being built by the John Brown shipyard of Glasgow. It is expected to come into service in three years and will be the largest liner built in Britain since the Queen Elizabeth, completed in 1940.

The British government is lending around $50,000,000 towards the cost.

Try to Look Like a Canadian!

PARIS (Reuters) — Hot dogs and bowler hats are among things Canadian tourists visiting France are being advised to avoid these days.

The French, who have a hard time distinguishing Canadians from Americans and Englishmen, have come up with a leaflet of advice aimed at visitors from Canada.

The leaflet, issued by the French tourism commission, tells Canadians how they can avoid confusion about their nationality.

The leaflet, "enjoying France as a Canadian," advises prospective visitors:

- Carry a maple leaf or beaver sticker on your luggage.

- Don't over-patronize hot-dog stands.
- Avoid dressing or acting like a Texan.
- Don't wear a bowler hat.

"Although some 90,000 Canadians visit France every year, the average Frenchman is still unable to distinguish a Canadian at first sight as he can with several other nationalities," the leaflet says.

"Most Canadians welcome this chance to be anonymous, but many would like to avoid being mistaken for an American or Englishman, the two most obvious faux pas."

The leaflet lists "Five fallacies you'll likely be quizzed on concerning Canada" as:

- "Oh, they do speak English in Canada?"
- "Does it snow all the year round?"
- "Lester Pearson's been president" for nearly 15 years now, hasn't he?"
- "Do you see many Eskimos around?"
- "Is it true that Canadians on one side of Canada are going to bed while those on the other side are getting up?"

STAN DELAPLANE's Postcard from Pisa

Error of 1174 Pays Off

PISA, Italy—If Romano Pisano had not built his marble tower on a fault in the subsoil, Pisa would probably be bypassed by tourists today.

Fortunately for this Italian town, Romano had no way, in 1174, of knowing this. Consequently, the Leaning Tower of Pisa draws thousands of people. All paying 150 lire to climb up (what a climb!) — and walk around with no guard rails. And scare themselves to death.

At the bottom, there are a number of antique quick-develop cameras. And the enterprising Pisano has figured an optical illusion: You put one hand out and, with the tower in the background, it looks as though you are holding it up.

This has become a thriving tourist industry. And the people of Pisa are grateful to Romano. The new super-duper autostrada runs from Florence to Pisa far away from the river Arno and the original road.

Italy is crossed with autostradas now. Big divided highways in the modern manner. As in North America, they are great for truck drivers. And, of course, destroy the land for the casual tourist.

Billboards hide as much of green Italy as the manufacturers can afford. And the high-speed sightseer is hustled by the Renaissance towns faster than he can read the Michelin guide.

Still it is wonderful country at this time of year. The emerald fields spotted with carnation poppies. The brown fortress villages perched on fortress hilltops.

All Italy is one great art gallery, thick with historic intrigue. Off the road at Prato is where you find the frescoes of Filippo Lippi, a 15th century monk who led a scandalous life but painted like an angel.

Fra Filippo was ordained at 15 years. (It was a blessed age—one of the Medici became a cardinal at 15.) However, at 18 he found the vows too strict and began playing the Prato night life.

He was thereupon bounced from the monastery. While on the lam got himself captured by Barbary pirates and was sold as a slave in Africa.

The Saracens freed him for his artistic talents. He came home penniless. But in a few years got involved with the nun Lucrezia Buti who bore him a child, Filippino.

SAIGON (UPI)—A company of Australian infantrymen has taken up positions alongside U.S. paratroopers in defence of the Bien Hoa air base north of Saigon.

The 110 Australians plied two-man tents and dug slit trenches only hours after arriving by chartered airliner from Sydney. A full battalion of 800 men is expected to arrive shortly.

Cecil L. Snyder, chairman of the federal tax appeal board, will preside over a week-long hearing of tax appeals which start Monday in the Law Courts.

BARCELONA, Spain (AP)—A group of Russian tourists flew into Barcelona from Paris last week and the Spanish news agency Otre said they are the first Russian tourists to visit Spain for more than 15 years. The group, two women and six men, plans to spend 17 days in Spain visiting various cities.

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Arthur Ashe and Gene Scott over their Canadian opponents Friday put the United States ahead 2-0 in Davis Cup tennis play at the Bakersfield Racquet Club.

Ashe breezed to a 6-3, 6-1 win over Keith Carpenter of Montreal after Scott defeated Harry Fausquier of Toronto 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 in the North American zone semi-finals.

Only once did Carpenter, a four-time member of the Canadian Davis Cup team, threaten when Ashe was serving. In the seventh game, Ashe fell behind 15-40, but rallied to win the game and go ahead 5-2.

WILL AHEAD
In the initial game of the second set, Ashe broke Carpenter's serve and was ahead all the way, winning the set with a smashing backhand volley.

Scott, the fifth ranked player in the United States, edged out the semi-final American zone match when he broke Fausquier's service to take a 5-4 lead and then put away a cross-court volley on match point.

EASY VICTORIES
Scott scored relatively easy victories in the first two sets. Each player broke service twice in the first five games as Scott took a 3-2 lead.

In the eighth game, the Yale graduate broke Fausquier's serve on a well-placed backhand passing shot and took a 5-3 advantage.

University School Track King Again

University School's track and field team has gone through a second successive unbeaten season. Following last year's performance of six victories, the team this year has defeated Victoria, Oak Bay, Chascomus and Esquimalt high schools in dual meets and then won its biggest victory last week in Vancouver. That last one retained for University School the championship of B.C. Independent Schools in a meet with Shawnigan Lake Boys' School, Brentwood College and Vancouver St. George's.

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Julius Boros continued his mastery of the rugged Warwick Hills Country Club course Friday as he took a two-stroke lead at the halfway mark of the $100,000 Buick Open golf tournament.

Boros, flitting with trouble most of the way, came up with his opening day 69 for a 139 total. The 45-year-old veteran picked up four birdies and went one over par twice during his round in which he had six 29 putts.

The field of 144 was cut to 70 for the final two rounds today and Sunday. Steve Spray, who held the first-round lead with a 68, settled for a one-over-par 71 Friday and a seven-way tie for second with such notables as defending champion Tony Lema, Jack Nicklaus, Doug Sanders, Bert Weaver, Johnny Pott and Gary Player.

Player turned in one of the day's best rounds—a 68—despite a three-putt green on the 18th.

PETER POLLEN, President "WHERE GREAT CARS ARE SOLD"

Japan Holds Key To B.C. Power

By IAN STREET
Legislative Reporter

OSAKA — The crucial engagement in B.C.'s battle to meet steeply rising demands for electric power will be won or lost here.

The new Takasegawa plant of Mitsubishi Heavy Industries Ltd., a 90-minute car ride away, is where five huge generators for the Peace River hydro project are to be built.

Even in this plant, which specializes in turbines of all kinds and has an annual production capacity of 2,600,000 kilowatts, nothing this large has been attempted.

CALCULATED RISK
Each of the generators will have a capacity of 266,000 kilowatts and the job will keep the water turbine division busy for nearly 18 months.

Resource Minister Williston told Mitsubishi officials during a recent tour of the plant by members of the B.C. mission that Hydro directors had taken a calculated risk in giving the turbine contract to Japan.

"No one has built turbines of this capacity before," said Mr. Williston. "Before this contract is finished there will be more orders because development in B.C. is so great we are already short of electric power."

DEMAND INCREASING

Power demand in the northern section of the province jumped 20 per cent last year, said Mr. Williston. The provincial average rose 13 per cent.

"Whether we can meet these rising demands in 1968, 1969 and 1970 all depends on Mitsubishi," he told the Japanese industrialists.

The Mitsubishi and other officials in this country, which is desperately short of power despite wide-scale development of thermal sources, find it difficult to believe the magnitude of the potential in B.C.

POTENTIAL GREAT

Mr. Williston explained that even when the Peace and Columbia schemes are completed, little more than 10 per cent of the province's hydro-electric potential will have been tapped.

Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark warned it may take time to iron out technical difficulties in new contracts with Japan. But he stressed the willingness of B.C. to do everything it can to smooth the way for firms here.

"You are more important to us than any other area," said Mr. Loffmark. "We want you to realize that."

CN Express Strike May Spread

TORONTO (UPI)—A wildcat strike of 1,100 CN Express workers which began here Wednesday may snowball into a nationwide work stoppage union spokesmen indicated Friday.

The Toronto workers walked off their jobs in protest against the demotion of a truck driver who mislaid a carton. The driver, who had five years of seniority, was reduced to porter.

The walkout spread Friday to Hamilton, London, Brampton, Ottawa, Oakville and Oshawa. The company has been forced to curb express and freight shipments by air and rail.

Canada Showing Off Military Muscles

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is going to show off its military power in a special Ottawa parade Saturday, June 12.

The review will be staged for the public, the politicians and even foreign military attaches. The defence department Friday, in announcing plans for the giant marchpast, billed it as "the capital's biggest-ever peacetime parade."

WHOLE WORKS

It will feature 5,000 men, 33 aircraft and a sample of almost every piece of Canadian military hardware that can be rounded up from Camp Shilo, Man., to Halifax.

Among other things it will display publicly for the first time the four pieces of Canada's nuclear arsenal—the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, the Honest John artillery rocket, the Voodoo interceptor, and the Starfighter strike-reconnaissance aircraft.

All, of course, minus their nuclear warheads. In all, it will take more than an hour for the parade to pass any given point on the 2½-mile

After Man Dies

Clam Warning Issued For Gulf of Georgia

The provincial health department warned Friday against clam and mussel fishing anywhere in the Gulf of Georgia.

A health department spokesman said tests have established the shellfish have shown a dangerous level of toxicity from red tide poisoning.

The entire gulf is being considered in danger of red tide until further tests manage to isolate poisoned areas, he said.

The spokesman said a post-mortem on a Powell River man who died early this week after a clam feast showed he definitely died of red tide poisoning.

Four people who were with him are in hospital recovering from severe illness and paralysis.

The spokesman said government-imposed bans on shell-fishing may be imposed in infected areas pending results of tests.

Commercial canning destroys toxicity in shellfish.

The spokesman said there is a slight possibility that oysters could also be affected by red tide.

Unstable? Not Our Endeavour

Floating Lab Finds Fighting Word

By AL ARNABON
Aboard the ocean research ship Endeavour, "unstable" is a fighting word.

From captain to cook, the men who sail the $4,500,000 floating marine laboratory are still bristling over claims she may roll over at any moment.

Sure, she rolls in a heavy sea—and badly, they agree. "But the ship is not unstable," Capt. D. C. MacFarlane of Victoria said vehemently when interviewed Friday aboard the oceanographic ship. "She will not roll over."

He was referring to Vancouver newspaper stories which quoted an unnamed crewman as saying the just-completed craft tilted "almost on her beam ends."

That means a 90-degree tilt. The reports shook up the crew more than the storm did.

Cruising slowly in millpond-calm Saanich Inlet Friday while University of British Columbia scientists took samples of plankton and small sea creatures, the Endeavour seemed steady enough.

The scientists were conducting a number of simultaneous experiments.

Professor Brian Bary was testing a torpedo-like plankton trap which is towed behind the ship, and at the same time he was putting a new Japanese echo sounder through its paces for evaluation.

UBC student Ed Gilliam of Manchester, Mass., was conducting a week-long study of plankton-collecting equipment and techniques. He was assisted by Charles Woodhouse or Santa Barbara, Calif., and summer student William Coles of Vancouver.

In the Endeavour's spotless innards sits the cause of her chagrin: a stabilizing device that should reduce her roll, but actually makes it worse.

It is called flume tanks. Simply explained, it involves two tanks, one on each side of the ship. They are joined by a wind pipe, or flume, with baffles in it. The whole thing is half filled with fuel oil ballast.

When it is working properly, as aboard the ice-breaker Camell and a number of other Canadian government ships, the oil holds the ship steady by sloshing from one tank to the other at a slightly retarded rate.

Naval architects will meet this week to go over the design which allows the oil to pour into the low side of the ship too fast, adding to the roll.

It was chosen instead of keelsons (steel strips jutting into the water from stem to stern below the waterline) because it won't interfere with instruments being continually splashed into the sea and retrieved by scientific teams.

Another reason is that when it works, it is better than any other roll-cushioning system known. It has been known to reduce a 35-degree roll to about five degrees, enabling scientists to work in moderately rough seas instead of waiting for calm.

If the Endeavour's predicament has caused some public disenchantment with the highly touted and radically designed craft, it might be understandable.

But aboard the ship that rolled 40 degrees in her first bout with a 20-foot swell last month, there is no lack of confidence.

Still on top of the off-duty conversation list is her sailing schedule—including a trip to Japan this year and Chile the next.

Master Plan Changing

Progress Forces Some Alterations

By PATRICK O'NEILL

Capital Region Planning Board will soon rewrite its five-year-old master plan for the Victoria metropolitan area.

The revision will be undertaken in line with the recent plan for a $45,000,000 freeway system in Greater Victoria.

It will also take into consideration an extensive planning study of the city of Victoria.

The city study is now in its final stages, and a draft will be presented to the Capital Region Planning Board in two weeks.

Anthony Roberts, planning director of the Capital Region Planning Board, says the city study was undertaken to survey land use and zoning possibilities posed by the freeway plan.

The major revision of the region's master plan will also take the freeway plan into account, though it will not be as detailed as the city plan.

Mr. Roberts commends municipal planners who have been carrying out their own detailed planning in line with broad thinking.

One of these municipal planners, Geoffrey White of Oak Bay, says major changes are taking place in the Greater Victoria area.

"First, there is the increase in population. There has been approximately a 2.9 per cent increase every year for a generation. In 50 years' time, the population may well be 700,000."

Inflation a Factor

Mr. White says another change in Greater Victoria is the general effect of inflation. "The amount of money that may be spent here doubles approximately every 12 years."

But the major factor in planning, and a major problem, is the automobile, which prompted the multi-million-dollar freeway proposals.

"In 30 years we may well have more than three times as many cars on our roads," he speculates.

"The congestion, and the corresponding noise, create a major problem in our planning."

Mr. White, who is a non-voting member of Capital Region Planning Board, says another change in planning is the increase in parks and beautification being located on the traffic routes and near shopping centres.

"This is being done so that people who spend a portion of their day going to work may enjoy their time spent travelling, rather than look at drab streets."

More beauty and less drabness in regional planning is also advocated by Colin Graham, curator of the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

He points out that changes in planning maps and surveys are just paperwork until they are put into effect.

"In Edinburgh there is an aesthetic advisory committee to the city, including architects, planners and art gallery officials."

"This committee has considerable power to regulate development."

He says there is nothing comparable in Western Canada.

"There is a committee in Vancouver, but generally speaking there is little aesthetic control over development in Victoria, Vancouver or Seattle," said Mr. Graham.

Mr. Roberts believes future development will play a large part in the revision of the regional survey.

"We will look at the 1950 plan, study the projections and see what prophecies have become fact."

Collector's Passion

First the Wagon Next a Horse

The quiet of the pastoral scene at Cowichan Station, near Duncan, was briefly interrupted Friday noon by a puffing little car and the rumbling of wagon wheels.

A dream had come true for 29-year-old Victoria printer Joseph Stock. He always wanted to have a real antique murrey and his neighbor Mrs. M. D. Delahant sold him one for $5.

Instead of using a horse, Mr. Stock hitched the weather-beaten buggy to his small car and pulled it up Moss Road near Lakeside Road where he is building a new house for his young wife and 11-month-old daughter Leah Rose.

His family still lives in Victoria at 1938 Trans-Canada Highway.

The young, Winnipeg-born printer came to Vancouver Island two years ago and hopes to move in the near future to his Cowichan Station property.

He said he will fix up the 70-year-old buggy and acquire a horse to pull it instead of a car.

"Maybe next year we will drive it in the Victoria Day parade," he said.

Are the big bingo games losing favor with the public? Members of Victoria Kinsmen Club are wondering if this is the case, following decreasing attendance for bingo games this season, and a very poor house for the last game of the season.

Marcel Baranow said "we definitely didn't make any money on the June bingo at the arena. We may well have lost money."

ONLY 3,000
The last bingo of the season, fifth since August for Kinsmen, attracted only 3,000 people.

"I think the public is demanding more than just a bingo game," said Mr. Baranow. "They want something different, something extra."

He pointed out in the March bingo, where a house was raffled off, there was a full house and 1,200 were turned away at the door.

THINKING OF WAYS
Mr. Baranow said the club plans at least three large bingo games next season, in October, November and December.

"We will be spending the summer thinking up ways to add things to the games, to make them more attractive to the public."

Yachts Race Today

Three skippers will compete today in the Mallory Cup elimination series at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club for the North American Sailing Championships.

They are Gerry Anderson, Jack Woodward and Bill Vogel. The competition will consist of six races and the winner will compete against the winner of the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association delegation in four races Sunday.

ELIMINATION WINNERS
Overall winner will become Vancouver Island zone champion and will compete in the semi-finals here the weekend of June 26. Entries will be elimination winners from Vancouver, Seattle and Columbia River areas.

Final winner here will go to the North American finals in New Orleans in August.

WOMAN'S EVENT
Eliminations will also be held here today for the Adams Cup women's championship racing.

Two teams skipped by Marguerite Townsend and Shirley Jefferson will sail in Cal 20s and the winner will compete Sunday against the RCNSA winner.

Semi-finals will be held in Vancouver June 26 and 27.

Art Display At St. David's

Victoria High's graduating girls line up for ceremonies

After Hectic Days A Glittering Night

By TONY DILLON-DAVIS
More than 1,000 Greater Victoria high school students gathered in four schools Friday for graduation ceremonies.

For most grads, the past few days have been hectic ones. Fresh from final exams, they tackled the weighty problems of the right dress, the right suit—even the right flowers to go with both. Dates were arranged long ago, but there were still the last-minute details of the biggest social event of the year.

VALEDICTORIANS
For four valedictorians, Thomas McKeachie, Barry, English, Caroline Bailey and James Forward, there was the harrowing experience of writing a speech—not too sentimental, and inspiring but not rabble-rousing—and then delivering it.

Thomas McKeachie delivered his address before his 388 classmates at Victoria High.

His classmates got a preview of things to come, from guest speaker Dean Robert Wallace, dean of administration at Victoria University.

The students sat with rapt expressions on their faces, some thinking of next year in university, and others about the evening's after-graduation parties.

At Oak Bay High, Barry English spoke before 303 members of the graduating class.

The students received greetings from B.C.'s education giant, UBC, brought by Walter D. Young of UBC's faculty of economics and political science.

Robert D. Ferguson, manager of the Victoria branch, Montreal Trust, brought the 220 Mount View grads a message from the business world.

Caroline Bailey was Mount View valedictorian.

The world of politics was part of the Esquimalt Senior High ceremonies, in the person of guest speaker Herbert Bruch, MLA.

Valedictorian for the 183 graduating class members was James Forward.

After the speeches, it was all over—the ceremonial part, anyway—and the dance bands tuned up. Before long, groups of grads started making their way to waiting cars.

One Thing Led to Another

It started as an alley cleanup job, and snowballed.

In early May officials at Spencer Stores' Douglas Street location found that anyone standing near the McPherson Playhouse and Centennial Square could look straight at the neglected rear of the store.

"We felt we had to go along with the improvements. There was no excuse for us not to."

company spokesman Lloyd Davies said Thursday.

So the company decided to "redo our backside," making color schemes conform with those of Centennial Square.

Rear improvements put a bee in company officials' bonnets.

They decided to give a facelift to the store's front, and then started looking around for ways to improve the store's interior.

The result is a major renovation program which started in April and won't be finished for another three weeks.

"We have co-operated all along the line with the city special projects office, which came up with the color scheme," Mr. Davies said.

"The color scheme will blend with that of Centennial Square." The front of the store will be floodlit in the evenings.

Gallery Teaches Art for Youth

Surgery Gives Tall Girl Chance for Normal Life

HYDE, England (AP) — The girl who was shrunk by surgery has stepped nervously back into the world.

At six feet Anne Rowston still is a tall girl. But eight months and four operations ago she was six feet eight inches—and finding a boy friend to match was impossible.

Anne, 18, was cut down to six feet by removal of bone from her legs—four inches from each leg above the knee and 3 1/4 inches below.

She still must walk on crutches for some time, perhaps several months. But her time in hospital, and newspaper stories that went round the world, have brought her a whole new perspective.

The girl who had never been on a date before now has scores of pen friends. The special one is Londoner Bill Dicker, 23, himself six feet five inches tall.

"His letters were a special comfort," Anne said. "He'll be my first date."

LEARNS NEW SKILL

Another new slant on life has come from Gubown Hospital's belief in art as therapy. It is the only hospital in Britain employing a full-time art tutor.

He is Donald Foster, and from him Anne has learned to draw and paint so well that she hopes to make a living from illustrating books and designing Christmas cards.

Anne returned to her parents' home here Wednesday night—the home in which she had lived almost as a recluse rather than face the jibes of kids in the street.

"I used to feel as if I had two heads," she said.

"The children were the first to face. They'd shout 'Lanky' and 'what's the weather like up there' and that sort of thing."

"I love dancing, but I was a permanent wallflower. Buying clothes was a nightmare, nothing would ever fit."

Anne's meeting with surgeon Lloyd Griffiths came almost by chance.

She went to the hospital for advice on special shoes. Instead a consultant asked her if she would like to grow smaller, and at first she thought it was just another jibe.

After the final operation, Anne said, it seemed that she was still the same size but everything around had changed.

"When I finally got out of bed, everything seemed to be bigger," she said. "Tables and chairs had grown taller. Lampstands were higher. It took a lot of effort to realize that the change was actually in me."

Now this attractive brunette plans a shopping spree to replace all those outsize clothes she's now too small for.

And then comes her first date.

Dr. and Mrs. William B. Milburn, 1530 Ash Road, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marie Elizabeth, to Mr. Ronald Bishop of San Francisco, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Bishop of Rochester, N.Y. The marriage will take place at 7:30 p.m., June 22, in Christ Church Cathedral. (Mr. Bishop's photo by Bill Cogan, San Francisco)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from "Bitter 16" told how selfish most teen-age boys are — how they chase two or three good-looking while the plain girls sit home, dateless and miserable.

Not ALL teen-age boys are that way. A few months ago I had an experience that proved it.

My hobby is photography. I was asked to run the photo session at a prom. The big problem was the repeater—those who kept coming back again and again.

One young ruggedly handsome fellow kept returning with a different girl every 20 minutes. I finally said, "You've had about 10 pictures taken, aren't you overdoing it?" He gave me a wink as he handed me his quarter.

A few minutes later he came back alone and whispered, "If you don't mind I'd like to bring a few more gals over. Some of the girls don't have dates to-night and I'd like to see that they have at least a souvenir picture."

This chap had been seeking out the wall-flowers and paying for the pictures himself. Sweet?—RENEWED FAITH

Dear Renewed: You bet! I always knew there were such teen-agers around but I'm glad to let millions of others know it, too.

Dear Ann Landers: Vera and I are successful, middle-aged, unmarried career people. We've often congratulated each other on the joys of freedom.

Last night we discussed marriage as a "sporting proposition." We both know couples who, when their marriage failed, tore each other apart in the divorce court.

We are considering marriage with the understanding that if things don't work out we will meet in a lawyer's office, shake hands, sign the papers and part company in a civilized manner.

There would be no settlement or alimony jazz.

What do you think of this?—MATURE.

Dear Mat: Not much. If you are interested in a "sporting proposition," why not bet on the Irish Sweepstakes and let it go at that?

Marriage is a promise to love and cherish one another for so long as you both shall live. It is not an agreement that you will stay together as long as she has her figure, or as long as you have your bankroll—or until somebody more attractive comes along.

Unless you two view marriage as a permanent arrangement—a heavy emotional investment, well worth the agony of learning to live together—you'd better stay single and save the court costs.

Dear Ann Landers: Both my husband and I teach. For several years summer school has kept us from enjoying a real vacation. This summer we want to take a two-month trip.

Yesterday my husband's mother announced that she'd like to join us. She is financially independent and will pay her own way. My husband said, "If mother comes along the trip will be ruined. I'd rather stay home."

My husband's two married sisters who live in this city go off on vacations very suddenly. We never know they are going until we get a postcard from 800 miles away. I'm sure they disappear quietly to avoid unwanted company.

I don't want to hurt my mother-in-law's feelings. What should be done?—NINE O'CLOCK BELLE.

Dear Belle: Your husband should tell his mother that you have been looking forward to this "second honeymoon" and you want it to be just that.

Feeling as you do, if your mother-in-law is permitted to blast her way into your vacation you will all wish you'd stayed home.

Travelling To Europe

ERRINGTON—Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Simons and daughter Louise were pleasantly surprised when a group of friends gathered at their home recently, to wish them "bon voyage" on their trip to Europe.

They will be attending their son Dennis' wedding which takes place in London, England, in early August. A gift of money presented by the group will be a wedding present to the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Simons and Louise will be visiting Finland and Sweden, and in July, Louise will attend summer music school in Salzburg, Austria.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Charles Randall, assisted by Mrs. Ben Chaffin, Mrs. Ken Clarke and Miss Nancy Randall. Mrs. Nels Erickson, a co-convenor, was unable to be present.

mother and sister at their wedding. She carried an all-white cascade bouquet of gladiolus, lily of the valley and stephanotis.

Mrs. C. Macaulay as matron of honor for her sister was in a blue embossed taffeta gown styled on similar lines to the bride's gown. Bridesmaids, the Misses Vicki Joyce and Judy Lowwood, wore matching blue raw silk dresses. They all carried cascade bouquets of white chrysanthemums, lily of the valley and stephanotis.

Mr. Robert Morris was best man. Ushering were Mr. Michael Garrick and Mr. Dennis Marks.

Mr. John Palmer of Victoria proposed the toast to his goddaughter at a reception which followed at the home of the bride's parents. Centring the bride's table was a three-tiered cake topped by stephanotis and surrounded by white tulle, fern and white jasmine.

For travelling to Point-No-Point, Sooke, the bride wore a pink orchid boucle suit with ruffle V-neckline. Her accessories were navy and she wore a gardenia and stephanotis corsage.

The newlyweds are now making their home at Maple Bay.

YWCA Groups

To Help Girls With Problems

SASKATOON (CP) — Local YWCA groups in Canada plan to hire more social workers and counselors to help problem girls who come to them for aid. A resolution asking efforts in this direction was passed at the national convention of the Young Women's Christian Association here.

Vivian Durden of Toronto, director of research project which is studying how the YWCA can help girls and women solve various personal problems, told the convention it would be "impossible" to refuse to accept problem girls.

"Some YWCAs could do this but how can you spot the problem girl who applies for residence. You would have to have qualified staff on hand to make a spot diagnosis of the girls," Miss Durden said. The alternative for the YWCA is to admit "we are stuck with the problem and then it is important that we upgrade staff and salaries to enable us to help these girls."

She said the research study, designed and carried out under a welfare grant from the national health department, worked on detailed reports of 23 cases and incomplete reports on another 35, but is not final or definite.

She said it showed an increasing number of girls and women in Canada are turning to YWCAs for help with serious, urgent and complicated personal problems.

The problems include personality difficulties, unmarried pregnancies, marital conflict, mental illness, drug addiction and alcoholism encountered by local associations through residences, counselling services and programs.

"I don't think the YWCA is the only place for girls with problems, but we can provide a place and must equip ourselves to handle them," she said.

Miss Durden also said the YWCA has a role to "intelligently" accept young women discharged from mental hospitals.

Preliminary figures of the study revealed more than 50 per cent of the girls and women with serious personal problems were under 21 years of age and more than 75 per cent under 25 years. More than 75 per cent of the group studied were single and Canadian-born.

More than 50 per cent of the girls on whom detailed reports were studied had not completed high school and one third of the group received financial assistance with local public welfare departments the most common source.

Few of the girls studied came from rural areas. Cities or towns accounted for 75 per cent and about half of them came to the YWCA on their own, not being brought or referred.

The study showed the most frequent problem encountered were personality difficulties and family conflict. Mental illness, suspected or diagnosed and economic problems were next.

Suicide threats or attempts were reported in 15 per cent of the detailed cases.

Unmarried pregnancies were reported in about 15 per cent of both detailed and listed cases. The study showed many girls had more than one problem.

Miss Durden emphasized the report was incomplete. The final report is expected by September, she said.

Two new associations, the Georgetown, Ont., and Prince George, B.C., were admitted to full membership and affiliation in the national YWCA Thursday.

Two other YWCAs, Kamloops, B.C., and Richmond Hill, Ont., were given provisional recognition.

The Kamloops association still has to draft a constitution for national approval and the Richmond Hill association also needs an elected board of directors before becoming full affiliated members.

The national YWCA convention was held in Saskatoon, Sask., June 3-5.

Suicide threats or attempts were reported in 15 per cent of the detailed cases.

Unmarried pregnancies were reported in about 15 per cent of both detailed and listed cases. The study showed many girls had more than one problem.

Miss Durden emphasized the report was incomplete. The final report is expected by September, she said.

Two new associations, the Georgetown, Ont., and Prince George, B.C., were admitted to full membership and affiliation in the national YWCA Thursday.

Two other YWCAs, Kamloops, B.C., and Richmond Hill, Ont., were given provisional recognition.

The Kamloops association still has to draft a constitution for national approval and the Richmond Hill association also needs an elected board of directors before becoming full affiliated members.

The national YWCA convention was held in Saskatoon, Sask., June 3-5.

Local YWCA groups in Canada plan to hire more social workers and counselors to help problem girls who come to them for aid.

A resolution asking efforts in this direction was passed at the national convention of the Young Women's Christian Association here.

Vivian Durden of Toronto, director of research project which is studying how the YWCA can help girls and women solve various personal problems, told the convention it would be "impossible" to refuse to accept problem girls.

"Some YWCAs could do this but how can you spot the problem girl who applies for residence. You would have to have qualified staff on hand to make a spot diagnosis of the girls," Miss Durden said. The alternative for the YWCA is to admit "we are stuck with the problem and then it is important that we upgrade staff and salaries to enable us to help these girls."

She said the research study, designed and carried out under a welfare grant from the national health department, worked on detailed reports of 23 cases and incomplete reports on another 35, but is not final or definite.

She said it showed an increasing number of girls and women in Canada are turning to YWCAs for help with serious, urgent and complicated personal problems.

The problems include personality difficulties, unmarried pregnancies, marital conflict, mental illness, drug addiction and alcoholism encountered by local associations through residences, counselling services and programs.

"I don't think the YWCA is the only place for girls with problems, but we can provide a place and must equip ourselves to handle them," she said.

Miss Durden also said the YWCA has a role to "intelligently" accept young women discharged from mental hospitals.

Preliminary figures of the study revealed more than 50 per cent of the girls and women with serious personal problems were under 21 years of age and more than 75 per cent under 25 years. More than 75 per cent of the group studied were single and Canadian-born.

More than 50 per cent of the girls on whom detailed reports were studied had not completed high school and one third of the group received financial assistance with local public welfare departments the most common source.

Few of the girls studied came from rural areas. Cities or towns accounted for 75 per cent and about half of them came to the YWCA on their own, not being brought or referred.

The study showed the most frequent problem encountered were personality difficulties and family conflict. Mental illness, suspected or diagnosed and economic problems were next.

Suicide threats or attempts were reported in 15 per cent of the detailed cases.

Garden Notes

Stakes Do Help

By M. V. CHERNUT

Any gardener with a pronounced distaste for physical labor will turn naturally to the determinate type of tomato plants such as Starfire, Fireball, Early Chatham and Early Bush Beefsteak, for with these non-staking or bush varieties you can grow an excellent crop of vine-ripened tomatoes without any of the bother of staking, tying and pruning.

All you need do is shove plenty of straw around and under the plants to keep the fruit from touching the soil and to conserve the moisture supply to the roots.

However, while staking isn't necessary with these bush-type tomatoes, there isn't any law against it. If you want to turn out a few super-duper tomatoes to awe the neighbors, or to cop a first prize at the fall fair, nobody is going to look askance at you for sticking in a few stakes and doing a little thinning of the forest of growths arising in your plants.

If you remember, I mentioned earlier this year how my delphiniums grew so much stronger and bloomed so much better when I thinned out the young shoots coming up from the roots in early spring. This same principle holds for the bush tomatoes, and by channeling all the plant's energies into just a few main stems, you'll get bigger tomatoes, although not as many of them.

With bush tomato plants, all the shoots don't come directly from the roots, as with delphiniums, but arise from the main stem a little above ground level. I let my plants go their own way for a while, until the plant begins to take on its characteristic bush-like shape, then I do a little judicious thinning of the shoots. A good plan is to leave four good strong main stems on each plant, nicely separated from one another.

These stems are best staked and tied, using one stake to each stem or four per plant, thereby giving you the equivalent of four staked tomato plants from each set of roots. Heavy feeding is necessary, of course, to take a four-fold crop from a single plant. I had better explain the pruning of the staking type of tomato for the benefit of those who prefer these to the bush or determinate kind. These varieties, as you know, are trained to only one single stem or trunk, which arises from the roots, and the plant is not permitted to make any branches at all.

These would-be branches sprout from the main stem in the leaf axil—that is, in the angle where a leaf joins the main stem—and it is necessary to go over your plants at least once a week, nipping these off as they appear with a sharp thumbnail. It is amazing how quickly these branchlets appear, and every time you turn your back, there is a fresh crop of them to be nipped out.

With one single exception, these branches or side shoots are taken off as close to the main stem as possible. Try not to leave any stub, which will always die and could provide entry for disease organisms. On the other hand, don't tear off the young side shoot so roughly as to rip a strip of skin from the all-important main stem.

The exception is where a leaf, a side shoot and a cluster of blossoms all arise at the same point on the main stem. Where this combination occurs, I don't nip off the side shoot close in, but allow it to grow until it has made a couple of leaves, then I nip out its growing point. This extra pair of leaves, located immediately above a cluster of baby tomatoes, will help pull up the sap required to swell the tomatoes, and will provide a little extra shade for the developing fruit.

Canadian Culture Comes to Moscow

'Why Isn't the CBC Here?'

By PETER WORTHINGTON

MOSCOW (TNS)—This is about Canadian culture coming to Russia.

Oh, we've had visits from pianists and singers—Glenn Gould, Lois Marshall and the like—and we've had hockey players (they're culture?). But never before has real Canadian culture come to the Soviet Union.

Then the Rideau Vert theatrical company of Montreal arrived for two weeks of performances in Leningrad and Moscow.

A new peak in Soviet-Canadian cultural relations was achieved.

The performances themselves—the French classic The Happy Strategist by Marivaux and the modern Quebec piece One House, One Day by Francoise Lavigne—were uneventful and well received.

Some of the Russians who gave them curtain call after curtain call even understood French. Those who didn't pretended they did—like the few Canadians present.

Like the day they visited the mayor of Moscow.

Five of them arrived by taxi at the city hall and were met by two Canadian embassy diplomats.

"Where's the CBC?" asked one actress. "Why isn't the CBC here? They know we're coming!"

It was decided to proceed with the visit anyway. The mayor's gain would be the CBC's loss.

"We have some gifts and greetings for the mayor," explained Mme. Yvette Brind'Amour, the founder, director and leading actress of Rideau Vert.

"The mayor of Montreal is sending an 'objet d'art' and a review of Montreal's progress during the past year."

"Yes, it's... how to say it... a plate. Yes. A plate."

"Oh. And why the other thing?"

"Mayor Drapeau thought it would be nice. The review is very informative. Montreal has had a big year. An important year."

"Oh."

"Yes. And there's a gift from our Minister of Culture. He's sent a book: Antique French Canadian Furniture."

"What?"

"Antique Furniture of French Canada."

"Does the mayor of Moscow like antique furniture?"

"I don't know. Anyway that's the book he's getting. Why isn't the CBC here?"

"I don't know. Let's go in."

And the group was herded into the city hall. A Canadian diplomat explained that the mayor was unable to be present.

"He had to attend a meeting and couldn't get away," said the diplomat diplomatically. "The deputy mayor is filling in for him—Mr. Naumov. Sergai Naumov."

Later the diplomat explained: "Naumov isn't really the mayor, but for our purposes today he is!"

Acting temporary deputy mayor Naumov greeted the delegation under a large picture of Lenin. One of the actresses wanted a photograph of herself under it.

He graciously accepted the gifts and led everyone to a table with a billiard green top and poured everyone a lemonade or mineral water.

Acting temporary deputy mayor Naumov then told his visitors how the Moscow Subway was no exceptional that 11,000,000 Moscovites used Moscow's public transport every day.

He discussed Moscow's building program and how 12 and 26-story apartments were now being built instead of five-story ones. Everyone nodded politely.

While he talked a secretary searched frantically through a cupboard behind the Canadians and came up with a bunch of books and pamphlets on Moscow. A great heap of badges and pins was tossed in.

Then the meeting broke up.

On the street the group headed back to the hotel, prior to the early evening performance.

"Still no CBC," stormed one. "We want television!"

Terribly Civilized

SHEILAH GRAHAM

NEW YORK (NANA)—Everyone is so terribly civilized these days. For instance Olivia de Havilland will be flying here from Paris on June 12 for the express purpose of promoting Berlin Wall, the book authored by Pierre Galante from whom she has been legally separated for several months. Of course they are still the best of friends, and it wouldn't surprise me to find Pierre in the role of best man if and when Olivia marries Lather Davis whom she met during their Lady in a Cage film romp.

Kevin McCarthy is visiting his sister Mary, in Paris and that is as close as she will come to the filming of her best seller, The Group, which starts next week in Manhattan... Kevin's last film, Mirage, with Gregory Peck and Diane Baker, was made mostly in New York as I recall.

Robert Redford's first novel, In the United States Ready for Self-Government? was bought by Joe Levine from the manuscript. It's a satire on Washington bureaucracy, and Jack Lemmon would be ideal for top spot.

Rita Hayworth arrived from the coast for daughter Yvonne's graduation from school in Lake Placid. Rita insists that the report of older daughter Rebecca's "engagement" was news to her, and I think her mother would be among the first to know. But not always.

When Rod Steiger is asked, "What are you going to do next?" he replies contentedly, "I'm going to sit and rest on my backlog." Rod has five unreleased pictures.

Including the current Dr. Zhivago. With her Spy Who Came In From the Cold all finished with Richard Burton, Mrs. Striger (Clara Bloom) can now join Rod in Madrid... And what happened to all those rumors of old friendship being revived between Clara and Burton? He was polite to her, but that was all.

Josephine Lane whom you will see almost immediately with James Franciscus in Escape Into Jeopardy on the Chrysler TV theatre, came to Hollywood nine months ago with an English accent that her Universal bosses asked her to lose. She was practicing at home with the now famous phrase, "The rain in Spain stays mainly in the plain" when a neighbor telephoned her and said, "You might just as well forget it dear, Audrey Hepburn has already made the movie."

Carolyn Jones' California divorce will be final Aug. 6, and until it is final, Carolyn will not admit marriage plans with agent Budd Mann—he used to be married to Ruth Roman—but she is not viewing the moonlight with anyone else.

Forrest Tucker lives in an apartment three blocks left of the Warner Brothers studio where he is starring in the F Troop series, and three blocks right of the Lake-side golf club. So instead of using a car to get to both, he goes from one to the other in his brand new $1,500 golf cart.

SYDNEY HARRIS

Airs His

Prejudices

Purely Personal Prejudices: What we call "idiotcy" is a recognized mental state, but we have not yet recognized the widespread state of "moral idiotcy," which is most commonly exemplified by the man who says, "I'm just doing my job," when he knows that the job is wicked one; Eichman was the highest example of a man who was neither a criminal (in a legal sense) nor a lunatic (in a psychiatric sense), but a moral idiot. When a parent too ardently desires a child's love, it is the very order that becomes the chief impediment to filial love; for it is an emotional axiom that excessive feeling provokes repulsion, not attraction.

Everybody expects a miracle of some sort—what we call "hope" is really a modest euphemism for belief in the miraculous; and the most intellectual and least superstitious among us, no less than others, conceal it though they may. The greatest mistake in life is to think that one will change; the second greatest mistake is to think that one cannot change. What someone like Harry Truman calls a "busybody" in Alabama, he calls a "fighter for democracy" in Viet Nam. A cigarette does not taste as well in the dark; vision, rather than being an isolated sense, is the seasoning of all the other senses as well.

Primitive societies have no "pornography" or "obscenity"; they are the excrecences of "civilization," just as dirty air is the price we pay for industrialism.

It always offends me, for some irrational reason, when a plane crash with 50 passengers gets a much larger headline than one with only 10 passengers; we judge "importance" by quantity, but to each of the 10 in the smaller crash a whole universe has been extinguished, as much as in the greater crash. The history of despotic nations is all the same: only the history of free peoples is different; indeed, history in a meaningful sense is possible only after despotism has been overthrown. The way we commonly remember a truth is by distorting it, by changing it into something more singular than it really is—just as a child remembers the tallest man he ever met by calling him a "giant."

"The value of a principle," said Emerson, "is the number of things it will explain." His point have added that the value of a political principle is the number of things it will explain away. The past was an age of cruelty but only sporadic violence; the present is an age of sentimentality and widespread violence; a child was treated meanly at home, but safe on the streets; today he is indulged at home, but in peril on the streets.

Williamson, with wife at side, carried from courtroom.

Collapses in Dock

WILLIAMSON: GUILTY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Al Williamson Friday was found guilty on two counts of forgery in the sending of the "dear Hal" letter to an aide of Prime Minister Pearson.

Only minutes after Mr. Justice Craig Munroe announced that Williamson was remanded until 10 a.m. Thursday for sentence the 60-year-old Vancouver public relations man collapsed in the dock.

Williamson dropped a cup of water he was holding and slumped in his seat. His wife rushed to his side and cradled his head on her shoulder, begging a court official to call a doctor.

Twelve minutes after the verdict was announced an ambulance arrived at the court house.

Williamson, 60, was remanded on his own recognizance.

The 12-man jury returned its verdict after 3 hours and 17 minutes.

When it gave its verdict of guilty of forging a letter to Hal Dornan, Mr. Pearson's assistant, and attempting to have Dornan treat it as genuine, Williamson sharply drew in his breath and his jaw dropped open.

His distraught wife held on to his sleeve as he was carried out on a stretcher and taken to hospital. As he was given oxygen and put onto the stretcher relatives wept nearby.

Williamson was later reported in good condition in hospital.

He could be sentenced up to 14 years on each count. The jury recommended leniency on the second count, however.

Mr. Justice Munroe sent a stir through the courtroom in the closing moments of a detailed charge to the Supreme Court jury.

He said the Crown was bound to prove that Williamson did not have authority to write the letter to Dornan in the name of Premier Bennett.

Yet, he said, there had been an "unexplained failure" by the Crown to bring forth the premier to testify. He would have been the person "best able to negate such authority."

Four Shot in Back

'Dillinger' Bank Job

Guns, Molotov Cocktails

Rivard's Partner Nabbed in Lair

MONTREAL (CP)—Four Montreal police officers carried out a lightning raid Friday which netted them Andre Rivard, who scaled the wall of Montreal's Boreaux jail March 2 with narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard.

Acting on a tip, the morality squad officers broke down the door of an apartment on Christophe Colomb Street in north-east Montreal taking Rivard, who was ready for such an occasion, completely by surprise.

"He was well armed," a member of the squad said. "We found three revolvers in the apartment, one hidden in the sofa, one in the kitchen and another under the bed."

Lucien Hard to Catch Even in Full Sight

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons several days ago almost had one of its returns signed by "Hon. Lucien Rivard."

A spokesman for the public works department said Friday the name of the elusive Montreal jailbreaker somehow got substituted on a parliamentary return for that of Works Minister Lucien Caron.

The return left the department with Rivard's name on it and passed through the Commons Journals branch. It was caught and corrected, however, by the House office, the last stop before it entered the House records.

"You could call it a clerical, typographical error," said the embarrassed works department official.

BIG SPRINGS, Neb. (AP)—A tall, well-dressed bank robber shot four employees of a western Nebraska country bank in the backs Friday, then walked to a late model car, circled the block and headed out of town.

Three of the bank staff, including the elderly bank president, were killed, the fourth critically wounded.

NO CUSTOMERS

There were no customers in the bank at the time, but on his way to his car, the six-foot bank robber bumped into a farmer, who looked inside the bank and then cried for help.

The holdup and gunplay in this prairie town of 550 was in the lethal tradition of the gun slingers who roamed this Nebraska panhandle country in the days of the old west and of "public enemies" such as John Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson, who terrorized Midwest banks in the 1930s.

LOOTED DRAWERS

The bandit looted the cash drawers but apparently did not attempt to enter the vault. Since the only survivor was the critically wounded assistant cashier, there was no immediate indication of how much was taken.

A physician who examined the victim said all had been shot in the back. He speculated that one had triggered the burglar alarm and the bandit then shot them all.

Dead are:

Andreas Kjelgaard, president of the Farmers State Bank, a man in his 70s; Glen Hendrickson, about 60, the cashier; Mrs. Lois Ann Hothan, about 35, one of two bookkeepers employed in the bank.

Franklin Kjelgaard, 25, an assistant cashier and nephew of the president, was wounded in the back, neck and shoulders.

Justice States Faith In Dornan Integrity

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice F. Craig Munroe delivered a special statement after the Williamson forgery trial Friday, stating his personal faith in the integrity of Hal Dornan, aide to Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Justice Munroe said: "There is one comment I want to make. There have been frequent references during this trial to Mr. Hal Dornan, personal assistant to the prime minister of Canada, and his connection with Mr. Williamson in Harry Stonehill's application for landed status."

"Mr. Dornan testified as a witness during this trial and told the court of the matter under consideration. I cannot speak for the jury but I can say that in my view no evidence was introduced that in any way reflected discredit on Mr. Dornan and there was no evidence to indicate that he did anything wrong or in any way acted in an improper manner."

"In the press, the prime minister has expressed confidence in the integrity of Mr. Dornan and I can only say that such confidence is fully justified."

"I make this comment only because when prominent people are mentioned it is possible that some members of the public can be confused as to who is on trial. Mr. Dornan is not on trial and moreover could not receive a jury's verdict. It is for that reason and because he is an employee in a public position that he is entitled to a comment from me."

"I intended to make this comment regardless of the verdict of the jury."

Gemini Twins Set Record

Big-Arm Satellite Fellow Traveller

HOUSTON (AP)—The American space twins set a new American endurance record Friday.

At 6:36 p.m. PDT Edward White and command pilot James McDivitt surpassed astronaut Gordon Cooper's record of 34 hours and 20 minutes, set May 16, 1963. (See also Page 2.)

In other moments of excitement during a comparatively routine day, the astronauts also chatted breezily with their wives and caught a glimpse of another satellite in orbit.

9-HOUR GOAL

Hours before the record-breaking moment came, McDivitt and White had been given the green light to go for 33 orbits. Their ultimate goal is to complete 62 orbits and drop back to earth Monday after 97 hours and 50 minutes in space.

Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky set the record two years ago: 119 hours, 21 orbits.

The most glamorous phase of their four-day adventure behind them, McDivitt and White spent the second day of their cosmic journey simply trying to live routinely in their strange environment.

He took movies, but the glaring sun prevented him from identifying it positively.

U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said the object might be the Pegasus II satellite, a bat-like device for detecting meteoroids.

It and a twin are the largest unmanned satellites in space, with a 36-foot wingspread. The Pegasus II was launched from Cape Kennedy May 25.

U.S. Orders Lemay Back to Montreal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. immigration service Friday ordered Georges Lemay deported to Canada, where he is sought in connection with a 1961 bank looting.

Immigration officer Melton Milich granted Lemay's lawyer 10 days to appeal the order. Milich withheld a decision in a deportation hearing involving Lemay's wife.

ACCUSED KINGPIN

Lemay, 39, is accused of engineering a 1961 burglary in which safety deposit boxes in a Montreal branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia were robbed of between $500,000 and $4,000,000. Lemay and Lise Lemieux, 28, were married by a notary public Wednesday in a swift ceremony prior to an immigration hearing.

Lemay was arrested May 6 aboard his yacht at Fort Lauderdale. A boat repairman tipped off police after he saw a resemblance between the yacht owner and Lemay's picture broadcast on the first Early Bird satellite television program.

97 STUCK ON ISLE IN PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A large Pacific passenger liner tried to rescue 97 stranded tourists from an island near Australia today but was prevented by high seas, the ship's agent here said.

A spokesman for P & O Orient Lines said it received a message from the 20,000-ton Oranva saying it was proceeding to Auckland, New Zealand, after failing to make the rescue at Lord Howe Island, 436 miles northeast of Sydney.

The ship said the tourists were stranded on the island Tuesday when their New South Wales Airlines flying boat broke from its mooring and was damaged. There was no indication they were in any immediate danger.

Reporter Meets Gouzenko

After 20 Years Still a Hunted Man

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The national capital is experiencing again these delicious spinal shivers that come from having front row seats with a close-up, in-person view of some of the actors in the continuing drama of Soviet espionage.

Two Soviet spies have been expelled from Ottawa and shipped back to Moscow, the sixth case in 20 years.

And now the convicted and life-imprisoned American traitor, the discharged airman, Robert Glen Thompson, has testified in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, and writes in a first-person magazine account that his Soviet spy-masters once assigned him to come to Canada and track down Igor Gouzenko for Russian "re-prise."

Well, how well hidden is Gouzenko?
Traitor Thompson failed in his manhunt.

But his had not been an impossible assignment — for it could have happened that he might have come face to face with Gouzenko on the street, in some shop, or even a bar.

This newspaper's Ottawa correspondent talked with

Gouzenko some months ago, and it was something of a surprise to discover that while he swears he still goes in fear of his life, he has become singularly casual about appearing in public.

What's the danger, he asks, for who, after 20 years, knows him by sight?

Apart from an accidental on-the-street confrontation, it wouldn't be easy to find him. It is possible—but only after your credentials have been minutely examined and painstakingly confirmed—to arrange, through a series of intermediaries, a meeting with Gouzenko.

All done by phone, too, for you don't see anyone, save your first remote contact, until Gouzenko walks in on you.

After weeks of wangling, when you get the final word that yes, Gouzenko will see you, Continued on Page 2

Paul Named Adviser For Island

Courtenay

Kiwanians Hold Conference

COURTENAY—A golf tournament and fishing derby have been held on by the Courtenay Kiwanis Club, hosts for the Kiwanis spring convention which starts here today and continues Sunday.

Kiwanis Zone 1 Governor Dan Freeman, lieutenant-governor Don Johnson of Oak Bay and secretary-treasurer Mel Davis of Puyallup, Wash., and 80 other guests will attend from clubs in Fort Townsend, Fort Angeles, Victoria, Duncan, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo, Powell River and the Alberni.

Convention chairman Punch Gernsey says that besides the golf tournament and fishing derby today the conventioners will enjoy a banquet and beach party at Royston.

Business of the conference will start at 9 a.m. Sunday and last until 2 p.m. with a noon lunch break.

for British Columbia and the Yukon, it was learned here this week.

Mr. Paul was one of six candidates for the council position. The others were Robert Chilton of the Comox band, Lawrence Lewis of the Cape Mudge band, both of the Kwakwaka'wakw agency; Ross Modeste of the Cowichan band and Wilson Bob of the Nanaimo band, both of the Cowichan agency, and Jack Peter of the west coast agency.

FOUR ZONES
Of the four zones within the area served by the regional council, Mr. Paul will represent Zone No. 1 covering Vancouver Island.

Others represented in the advisory council will be one delegate from the rest of the Yukon, the Native Brotherhood of B.C., the North American Indian Brotherhood, and a delegate to be appointed from the Home-makers' Clubs of B.C. and the Yukon.

THREE YEARS
All members of the advisory council will serve for three years and one of their main jobs will be to analyze and evaluate the proposals made to the council by representatives of the federal and provincial governments.

Indian agent Ronald Sampson of the Cowichan agency said it is also intended to set up a "national Indian advisory board composed of members of regional councils from all across Canada. Four delegates will be sent from the B.C.-Yukon region, one of which will represent the Yukon. The national Indian advisory council will meet when required with the minister of citizenship and immigration.

Jaycees Want Voice

NANAIMO—Empire Day parade chairman Peter Schwartz told a Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday the Jaycees should join the Nanaimo Empire Day Society.

He said the Junior Chamber has handled the parade for years and should have a voice in the governing council.

He also suggested a travelling civic parade float should be created to be entered in parades in other B.C. centres and offered the Jaycees float.

Gulf Island Fund Near Goal

GANGES — Campaign for the Gulf Islands Pioneer Village Fund is within $708.28 of its $12,000 goal after being boosted by two recent projects.

A raffle of a motorcycle donated by Norman Mount and won by Mrs. Eric Faure, raised $405, while a Lions Club social realised $135.97 to bring the total to $11,291.72.

The Lions Club is sponsor of the village project to provide housing for elderly citizens at Ganges. The $12,000 fund target represents 10 per cent of the initial cost of the project.

At a Thursday night meeting Mayor Pete Matteo became honorary president and Dr. Gerald Bonham, director of the Central Vancouver Island Health Unit, became honorary first vice-president.

The building committee of the organization has acquired the 3,600-square-foot site of the old hospital laundry on Kennedy Street and will start immediately cleaning it up.

The Kiwanis Club has given the society $100 to start working with. Next meeting of the society is July 2.

Club Buys Land for Park

DUNCAN — The Kinnamen Club has completed the purchase of a $18,000, five-acre property at the south end of Quamichan Lake to be developed into a public park by the club within the next five years.

Kinnamen Bob Lewis, last year's secretary and vice-president elect, says his club's giant blingo, June 10, here at Duncan, will help to raise the $7,000 his group still owes.

He said park planners from the provincial department of recreation and conservation are helping with the park's layout.

U.S. Will Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. defence department has issued its biggest monthly military draft call since the Berlin crisis late in 1961.

It asked selective service to induct 17,100 men in July for the army. The call in November, 1961, the Berlin crisis year, was for 30,000 men.

and most of the labor will be done by local club members and youngsters from the Duncan Teen Town which is sponsored by the Kinnamen.

The new park area is at the foot of Indian Road adjacent to a piece of land owned by the North Cowichan municipality and one of the first things the Duncan Kinnamen did was tear down a fence to facilitate the use of a boat ramp used years ago by seaplanes.

Demolition of Church Pushover for Bulldozer

Old landmark's site to become convent playground

80 Years of Service Reduced to Rubble

NANAIMO—A historic landmark came tumbling down in Nanaimo Thursday, 85 years after it was placed there. Before that it had served the community of Wellington for 25 years.

The pioneer St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church was torn down after being classified as dangerous, particularly after its steeple was hit by lightning several years ago.

The 80-year-old church was moved to its Wallace Street site from Wellington in 1910 after fire destroyed the church and convent of the Sisters of St. Ann.

Nanaimo was first visited by priests from Victoria on a monthly basis in the early 1870s. The first resident priest was Rev. J. N. Lemmons, who was appointed bishop by Bishop Segers in 1876.

CHURCH BUILT

In 1885 a Rev. Heynen established a parish at Wellington, then a thriving coal mining community, and a good-sized church was built the same year.

The Sisters of St. Ann arrived in Nanaimo in 1877 and in 1908 they built a new convent and orphanage.

DISASTROUS FIRE

Two years later a disastrous fire destroyed both the convent and a church. The convent was rebuilt and to replace the church Father Heynen, who became pastor of Nanaimo, had the church moved from Wellington, which by that time had become a ghost town, to its Wallace Street location.

The church has not been used since a new one, the Church of Mount St. Peter, was built in 1960 at Fitzwilliam and MacLeary Streets.

STILL STANDS

The convent, rebuilt in 1911, still stands on Wallace Street and is operated by eight Sisters of St. Ann, headed by Sister Damien Marie.

The sisters teach Grades 1 to 7 and a commercial class. The land on which the church stood will be used as an extension to the playground of the convent.

University Fund $807,000

The Vancouver Island division of the Tri-University capital fund has reached $807,000. It was reported Friday at a meeting of the management committee.

Nearly all that sum is from the Greater Victoria area. Returns from other Island points are just beginning to come in.

The provincial fund, which has an objective of $30,000,000, stands at $15,000,000. Island objective is $1,000,000.

Stock with surrey in tow

He's Got His Surrey But No Fringe Benefit

COWICHAN STATION—The quiet of the pastoral scene here was briefly interrupted Friday noon by a puffing little car and the rumbling of wagon wheels.

A dream had come true for 29-year-old Victoria printer Joseph Stock. He always wanted to have a real antique surrey and his neighbor Mrs.

M. D. Delahunt sold him one for $5.

Instead of using a horse, Mr. Stock hitched the weather-beaten buggy to his small car and pulled it up Moss Road near Lakeside Road where he is building a new house for his young wife and 11-month-old daughter Leah Rose.

His family still lives in Victoria at 1338 Trans-Canada Highway.

The young, Winnipeg-born printer came to Vancouver Island two years ago and hopes to move in the near future to his Cowichan Station property.

He said he will fix up the 70-year-old buggy and acquire a horse to pull it instead of a car.

"Maybe next year we will drive it in the Victoria Day parade," he said.

At Air Station

Comox Climax Today For Peace Marchers

COMOX—At 10 a.m. today some two dozen pacifists, bolstered by what supporters they have been able to gather in five days in the Courtenay area, will put their civil disobedience theories to the test.

With their leader, Peter Light, they will attempt to enter a major National Defence Department installation, RCAF Station Comox, and failing that will stage a 24-hour sit-down.

Whether they will risk arrest by crossing the white line painted across the concrete road leading into the airbase, remains to be seen.

In press releases ever since the group began assembling in Victoria May 30, Mr. Light and his fellow peace marchers have used phrases such as, "we will stage a sit-down demonstration for 24 hours or until arrested."

In their peace march from Victoria to Courtenay the group planned civil disobedience actions but in none of the places where demonstrations were planned, Nanaimo, Nanos Bay or Union, did the group do anything but distribute leaflets.

No Complaints

All up the Island the group has been described by the press, the public and the police as "polite and well-behaved."

At a rally in Courtenay's Lewis Park Thursday night at which the crowd grew to 300 at one time but dwindled to less than half that number, Mr. Light said that in this day and age "too many people are taking orders."

He said young men "are taking orders to go to war, police are taking orders to beat up civil rights demonstrators in the United States and people go on taking orders for a variety of reasons."

"They say 'If I don't do it, someone else will,' or, 'I have a wife and children to support'."

He said his group enjoyed a good relationship with the local RCMP, who had shown "a real warmth and humanness toward us."

"Now we are putting them on the spot. They may have to arrest us. They are also taking orders."

Master of ceremonies for the rally was Bill Vere, one of the peace marchers, who introduced Mrs. Edie Anfield, a correspondent for the Comox District Free Press.

"I believe these young marchers have accomplished a great deal," Mrs. Anfield said. "They have made us think and talk."

Calls to Youth

Grade 11 student Mark Walmaley said it cost $50 to kill one man in the Greek wars but in the Second World War it cost $65,000.

"It will cost only 50 cents to kill one man in the next war," he said. "People say we are young and to let older people solve these problems, but these older, wiser, sadder minds have placed the world in the state it is in today—a mess."

Ray Logie, a teacher from Courtenay High School said he was present because of personal contact with the peace marchers and because of questions he was asking himself.

Mr. Logie said he felt the group had nothing to gain in being at Comox but they also had nothing to lose.

Henry Spencer, a member of Parliament from 1921 to 1935 for what later became the CCF Party, said the young men and women in the march were stressing the wrongness of "the bomb on Canadian soil," and if a vote were taken across Canada he was sure the majority of people would agree it was wrong.

Songs of Peace

Before the speeches, entertainment was provided at the rally by Jane Ault, the Mundy's from Campbell River, and by peace-marcher John Dilday.

The groups combined to sing the civil rights song We Shall Overcome, with part of the song changed to suit their own theme.

Dilday, 17-year-old from Little Rock, Ark., said money for defence should be diverted to projects of peace, such as parks, hospitals and roads. He said this would tend to stimulate rather than decrease the economy.

Peace-marcher Christian Svrtil of Montreal emphasized "we cannot fight hate with hate although our leaders still think we can."

He told the audience, which by then was badly depleted, "We will play the air base on Sunday. We will meet violence, we will not return the violence."

Largest part of the audience appeared to be young people of high school age, many of whom left after the entertainment.

The whole rally was orderly and the RCMP were only noted passing by near the start of the program.

Car Crashes Near Alberni

Work Starts Soon On Ferry Dock

Work is expected to begin next week on a new ferry dock at Otter Bay on Pender Island, a B.C. Ferries official said Friday.

The new dock, which should be completed by July 31, will allow Swartz Bay-Taswanen ferries to serve Pender and Wayne residents.

Fraser River Pile Driving Co. won the contract with a bid of $104,238. Only other tender was $114,675 from Vancouver Pile Driving Co.

Meanwhile, the cabinet has authorized a $53,000 annual subsidy for three years for Texada Ferry Ltd. to run a service between Texada Island and Westview.

Pearkes to Visit Island Villages

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will leave from Esquimalt June 13 aboard HMCS Mackenzie to begin his annual tour of Island villages, Government House announced Friday.

His first stop will be Christie Indian Residential School near Tofino. He will go from there to visit Kysquut and Winter Harbor, ending his trip June 14 at Port Alice.

Port Alberni

Ghost Cars, Radar Used by RCMP To Cut Accidents

PORT ALBERNI — Radar and unmarked cars have been recruited in the RCMP's fight to cut down traffic accidents in the city, according to Sgt. Raley Harding, NCO in charge of the Port Alberni detachment.

Use of the radar and unmarked cars, along with increased routine patrols and mobile traffic checks at points of high accident potential, will be used in the summer safety campaign, Sgt. Harding said.

The police report for May showed there were 23 accidents, each resulting in more than $100 damage, four persons injured, one fatality and 80 prosecutions for traffic offences and under the recently amended anti-noise bylaw.

"By the same token, a few words of safety counselling to their children by parents will also achieve results."

He said that last week a young mother was seen dragging her child by the hand out of the control signal at Argyle Street and Third Avenue.

"Although she was obviously aware of the jaywalking offence, I wonder if this lady also considered the poor example in traffic safety being absorbed by her impressionable young child" the sergeant asked.

young children who will be using these facilities, I earnestly appeal to all motorists to scrupulously observe all posted speed limits in playground areas."

Exercise of proper caution by drivers wherever groups of young children are playing near any city thoroughfare, "can do much to prevent serious injury to junior citizens," Sgt. Harding said.

WORKS TWO WAYS

Use of the radar and unmarked cars, along with increased routine patrols and mobile traffic checks at points of high accident potential, will be used in the summer safety campaign, Sgt. Harding said.

CHILD KILLED

Sgt. Harding said death of a child in the street had marred last month's traffic picture.

Particular attention is being given playground and recreation areas by our traffic patrols. With the impending increase in the number of

Nanaimo Man

Two-Year Sentence For Death Threat

NANAIMO — A 39-year-old Nanaimo man was sentenced to two years in Oakalla Prison Farm after being found guilty of assault causing bodily harm and pleading guilty to threatening a person with death over the telephone.

Vern Boudot, 540 Stirling Avenue, was found guilty of beating up his wife May, 25. He was given an 18-month sentence on this charge.

He later pleaded guilty to threatening his wife with death over the telephone May 27. Mrs. Boudot was in hospital at the time.

Four Shot in Back

'Dillinger' Bank Job

Guns, Molotov Cocktails

Rivard's Partner Nabbed in Lair

MONTREAL (CP) — Four Montreal morality squad police officers carried out a lightning raid Friday which netted them Andre Durocher, who scaled the wall of Montreal's Bordeaux jail March 2 with narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard.

Acting on a tip, the morality squad officers broke down the door of an apartment on Christopher Colomb Street in north-end Montreal taking Durocher, who was ready for such an occasion, completely by surprise.

"He was well armed," a member of the squad said.

"We found three revolvers in the apartment, one hidden in the sofa, one in the kitchen and another under the bed."

"We also found some dynamite and three Molotov cocktails."

Durocher, 28, didn't have a chance to resist arrest.

"We had a good idea he was in there and we weren't taking any chances on him making the first move," the officer said.

The officer also took into custody a woman who claimed to be Durocher's wife.

There was no immediate word as to whether the capture had led to any information on the whereabouts of Rivard, central figure in the Dorion federal inquiry who was awaiting proceedings to extradite him to the United States, where he faces narcotics smuggling charges.

Lucien Hard to Catch Even in Full Sight

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons several days ago almost had one of its members signed by "Hon. Lucien Rivard."

A spokesman for the public works department said Friday the name of the elusive Montreal jailbreaker somehow got substituted on a parliamentary return for that of Works Minister Lucien Carlin.

The return left the department with Rivard's name on it and passed through the Commons journals branch. It was caught and corrected, however, by the Hansard office, the last step before it entered the House records.

"You could call it a clerical, typographical error," said the embarrassed works department official.

BIG SPRINGS, Neb. (AP) — A tall, well-dressed bank robber shot four employees of a western Nebraska country bank in the backs Friday, then walked to a late model car, circled the block and headed out of town.

Three of the bank staff, including the elderly bank president, were killed, the fourth critically wounded.

NO CUSTOMERS

There were no customers in the bank at the time, but on his way to his car, the six-foot bank robber bumped into a farmer, who looked inside the bank and then cried for help.

The holdup and gunplay in this prairie town of 550 was in the lethal tradition of the gun slingers who roamed this Nebraska panhandle country in the days of the old west and of "public enemies" such as John Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson, who terrorized Midwest banks in the 1930s.

LOOTED DRAWERS

The bandit looted the cash drawers but apparently did not attempt to enter the vault. Since the only survivor was the critically wounded assistant cashier, there was no immediate indication of how much was taken.

A physician who examined the victim said all had been shot in the back. He speculated that one had triggered the burglar alarm and the bandit then shot them all.

Dead are:

Andreas Kjelgaard, president of the Farmers State Bank, a man in his 70s; Glen Hendrickson, about 60; the cashier; Mrs. Lois Ann Hotan, about 35, one of two bookkeepers employed in the bank.

Franklin Kjelgaard, 25, an assistant cashier and nephew of the president, was wounded in the back, neck and shoulders.

WILLIAMSON GUILTY COLLAPSES IN DOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — Al Williamson Friday was found guilty on two counts of forgery in the sending of the "Dear Hal" letter to an aide of Prime Minister Pearson.

Only minutes after Mr. Justice Craig Munroe announced that Williamson was remanded until 10 a.m. Thursday for sentence the 60-year-old Vancouver public relations man collapsed in the dock.

Williamson dropped a cup of water he was holding and slumped in his seat. His wife rushed to his side and cradled his head on her shoulder, begging a court official to call a doctor.

Twelve minutes after the verdict was announced an ambulance arrived at the court house.

Williamson, 60, was remanded on his own recognizance.

The 12-man jury returned its verdict after three hours and 17 minutes.

When it gave its verdict of guilty of forging a letter to Hal Dornan, Mr. Pearson's assistant, and attempting to have Dornan treat it as genuine, Williamson sharply drew in his breath and his jaw dropped open.

His distraught wife held on to his sleeve as he was carried out on a stretcher and taken to hospital. As he was given oxygen and put onto the stretcher relatives wept nearby.

Williamson was later reported in good condition in hospital.

He could be sentenced up to 14 years on each count. The jury recommended leniency on the second count, however.

Mr. Justice Munroe sent a stir through the courtroom in the closing moments of a detailed charge to the Supreme Court jury.

He said the Crown was bound to prove that Williamson did not have authority to write the letter to Dornan in the name of Premier Bennett.

Yet, he said, there had been an "unexplained failure" by the Crown to bring forth the premier to testify. He would have been the person "best able to negate such authority."

Gemini wives of White, McDivitt call upstairs

Gemini Twins Set Record

Big-Arm Satellite Fellow Traveller

HOUSTON (AP) — The American space twins set a new American endurance record Friday.

At 6:36 p.m. PDT Edward White and command pilot James McDivitt surpassed astronaut Gordon Cooper's record of 34 hours and 30 minutes, set May 16, 1963. (See also Page 2.)

In other moments of excitement during a comparatively routine day, the astronauts also chatted breezily with their wives and caught a glimpse of another satellite in orbit.

8-HOUR GOAL

Hours before the record-breaking moment came, McDivitt and White had been given the green light to go for 33 orbits. Their ultimate goal is to complete 62 orbits and drop back to earth Monday after 97 hours and 50 minutes in space.

Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky set the record two years ago: 119 hours, 81 orbits.

The most glamorous phase of their four-day adventure behind them, McDivitt and White spent the second day of their cosmic journey simply trying to live routinely in their strange environment.

He took movies, but the glaring sun prevented him from identifying it positively.

U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said the object might be the Pegasus II satellite, a bat-like device for detecting meteoroids.

It and a twin are the largest unmanned satellites in space, with a 96-foot wingspread. The Pegasus II was launched from Cape Kennedy May 25.

U.S. Orders Lemay Back to Montreal

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. immigration service Friday ordered Georges Lemay deported to Canada, where he is sought in connection with a 1961 bank looting.

Immigration officer Melton Milich granted Lemay's lawyer 10 days to appeal the order.

ACCUSED KINGPIN

Lemay, 39, is accused of engineering a 1961 burglary in which safety deposit boxes in a Montreal branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia were robbed of between $500,000 and $4,000,000.

Lemay and Lise Lemieux, 28, were married by a notary public Wednesday in a swift ceremony prior to an immigration hearing.

Lemay was arrested May 6 aboard his yacht at Fort Lauderdale. A boat repairman tipped off police after he saw a resemblance between the yacht owner and Lemay's picture broadcast on the first Early Bird satellite television program.

97 STUCK ON ISLE IN PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A large Pacific passenger liner tried to rescue 97 stranded tourists from an island near Australia today but was prevented by heavy seas, the ship's agent here said.

A spokesman for P & O Orient Lines said it received a message from the 20,000-ton Oranva saying it was proceeding to Auckland, New Zealand, after failing to make the rescue at Lord Howe Island, 434 miles northeast of Sydney.

The ship said the tourists were stranded on the island Tuesday when their New South Wales Airlines flying boat broke from its mooring and was damaged. There was no indication they were in any immediate danger.

Reporter Meets Gouzenko

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The national capital is experiencing again those delicious spinal shivers that come from having front row seats with a close-up, in-person view of some of the actors in the continuing drama of Soviet espionage.

Two Soviet spies have been expelled from Ottawa and shipped back to Moscow, the sixth case in 20 years.

And now the convicted and life-imprisoned American traitor, the discharged airman, Robert Glen Thompson, has testified in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, and writes in a first-person magazine account that his Soviet spy-masters once assigned him to come to Canada and track down Igor Gouzenko for Russian "reprisals."

Well, how well hidden is Gouzenko?

How easy or hard to find? Traitor Thompson failed in his manhunt.

But his had not been an impossible assignment — for it could have happened that he might have come face to face with Gouzenko on the street, in some shop, or even a bar.

This newspaper's Ottawa correspondent talked with Gouzenko some months ago, and it was something of a surprise to discover that while he swears he still goes in fear of his life, he has become singularly casual about appearing in public.

What's the danger, he asks, for who, after 20 years, knows him by sight?

Apart from an accidental on-the-street confrontation, it wouldn't be easy to find him. It is possible—but only after your credentials have been minutely examined and painstakingly confirmed to arrange, through a series of intermediaries, a meeting with Gouzenko.

After weeks of wangling, when you get the final word that yes, Gouzenko will see you, (Continued on Page 3)
